Rocket Sets Up Showdown Over Berlin

U.S., France, Britain To Send USSR Firm Notes

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's huge Atlas satellite has helped to set the stage for the coming showdown with the Soviet Union over the future of Berlin.

Top U.S. officials said they expect this showdown to be diplomatic rather than military; they do not think now that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will push his campaign to the point of touching off World War III.

They declared that the latest speculation demonstration of U.S. power in missiles could well have a sobering effect on the impetuous Khrushchev.

Two early moves on the Berlin dispute are now in prospect:

1. Following up the North Atlantic Pact meeting that ended at Paris Thursday, the United States, Britain and France will shortly send firm notes to the Soviet government.

Reject Proposal

These notes will reject Khrushchev's proposal that the Western powers withdraw from West Berlin and make it a neutralized free city. They may also advise him to drop the ultimatum tone of his Berlin proposals.

2. Anastas I. Mikoyan, Khrushchev's deputy premier and close associate, on his visit here early next month will undoubtedly talk over a wide range of subjects.

Mikoyan may want to sound out the United States about some kind of a Berlin or German deal—no one here knows what he and Khrushchev have in mind.

When the Soviet Union put up history's first man-made moon little more than a year ago, Khrushchev promptly sought to exploit its apparent advantage over the United States in the rocket field. His campaign became known as Sputnik diplomacy.

Receives No Word

In view of this, officials here said he could be expected to give full weight to the military and diplomatic implications of the Atlas launching.

Press officer Joseph Reap said Friday afternoon the State Department has received "not the slightest word" from Moscow about what Mikoyan wants to do once he gets to Washington.

The department earlier announced that the U.S. Embassy had been authorized to grant his request to come here to see Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov early next month.

AF Jet Fires Ground Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An Air Force jet plane roared in over the cape Friday and blasted a highly classified air-to-ground missile into the Atlantic with a deafening roar.

All that was left after the firing was a puffy vapor trail shaped like a question mark that hung in the clear Florida sky.

The shoot followed on the heels of a dramatic Atlas satellite launching Thursday night and a Bomarc interceptor missile launching earlier Friday.

The Air Force declined to identify either the type of missile fired or the plane used in the test.

The Air Force has been testing a highly secret air-to-ground missile in the cape area intermittently during the past few months.

The shoot here was made to take advantage of the elaborate instrumentation facilities as part of the air-to-ground missile development phase.

Earlier, a blazing Bomarc air defense missile roared over the Atlantic and intercepted two pilotless drone aircraft with complete success.

Mass Killer's Verdict Upheld By High Court

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The Nebraska Supreme Court Friday upheld the first degree murder conviction of mass killer Charles Starkweather and ordered that he be put to death on Good Friday, March 27.

The court ruled that the 20-year-old, red-haired ex-garbage collector should be strapped into the electric chair of Nebraska's State Penitentiary some time between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.

At that time, he will pay with his life for one of the 11 murders which shocked the nation and wrote new chapters in criminology.

Officials at the penitentiary did not tell Starkweather of the decision, but assumed he had learned of it through his earphone radio set or the Lincoln newspapers which were delivered to his cell. Jailers said the youthful killer was busy scribbling an account of his crime spree which he hopes to see published.

The killer's lawyer, T. Clement Gaughan, said he would file a routine motion with the state Supreme Court asking for a rehearing, but doubted whether he would take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Starkweather was convicted last May 23 and had been scheduled to die two days ago. A mandatory appeal of the death sentence delayed the execution.

Starkweather admitted the 10 slayings on a week-long murder orgy with his girl friend, Caril Fugate, last January, and later confessed to an eleventh slaying a month before the rampage.

Caril, 15, was convicted of first-degree murder Nov. 21 and sentenced to life imprisonment. Her attorneys are now seeking a new trial.

Secret Electronic Brain Helps Direct U.S. Air Defenses

Giant Computer Unveiled To Press

KINGSTON, N. Y. (AP) — The Air Force has unveiled for newsmen the secret, giant electronic brain it is putting into use to help direct the nation's air defense forces.

The brain is a supersized, 10-million-dollar computer which can coordinate radar findings and other data in fractions of seconds to send guided missiles or planes zooming toward enemy planes or missiles approaching this country.

While newsmen watched her Friday, a button was pushed and a demonstration computer took over the firing and direction of a Bomarc missile from Cape Canaveral. The missile went out and intercepted two unmanned drone planes some distance off the coast of Florida.

In about four minutes, the Bomarc had come within range of the first plane, a B17 bomber, then was diverted at a right angle to intercept a smaller plane many miles away, reaching it in a total of about seven minutes.

Falls Into Atlantic

Air Force officials said either plane could have been knocked out of the air. The Bomarc finally was permitted to drop harmlessly into the Atlantic.

Newsmen watched on a huge circular screen as the missile, put in operation and directed by the computer 1,500 miles away from the launching site, went roaring toward its target.

The Bomarc and the plane appeared pips of light. The coast of Florida also was outlined in light to show the relationship between the missile and target planes.

The screen flashed data to show whether the missile was on its proper interception course at all times. The computer correlated all radar and other information necessary to direct the Bomarc, but human intervention was possible at any time.

The distance traveled by the Bomarc was kept secret here, but authorities said it has an effective range of up to 400 miles.

Stations Set Up

Fourteen computer stations are being set up throughout the country and the nation's air defense can be operated from any one of them if necessary. The computers, built by International Business Machines, are the largest ever constructed. They consist of huge radio-like panels covering hundreds of feet of floor space.

Air Force officials said a missile can be launched in less than two minutes after a supposed enemy plane or missile is picked up on the radar network lining the coasts.

Air Force planes also can be guided and their weapons actually fired at enemy craft by the computer without human intervention.

Insurance Shows Big Policy Boom

NEW YORK (UPI) — An insurance executive said Friday that the demand for million - dollar life insurance policies was increasing. The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Springfield, Mass., sold 18 of the whopping policies this year, said Michael Marchese, underwriting vice president. The premiums cost a 35-year-old man $35,000 a year. For a man 60 years old, the annual tab is $60,000.

To Accept Bids

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The state oil monopoly YPF announced Friday it will accept bids from private firms to dig 4,500 wells for its account in six years.

Nuclear Test Talks Recess For Holidays

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States, Britain and Russia adjourned their nuclear test conference for the Christmas holidays on Friday still far from agreement on the vital question of a control system.

Both sides cautioned against over-optimism in view of the important problems outstanding. They forecast long and difficult negotiations before any final agreement would be reached on a treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests.

Russia's chief delegate, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, said the future of the conference depended on Western willingness to compromise on key issues. He charged that Western demands threatened to make the projected treaty inoperative.

Tsarapkin charged at a press conference that the United States and Britain had been using the seven - week - old negotiations to gain a decisive advantage over the Soviet Union.

The Russians conceded, however that the conference had made some progress. He promised that the Soviet negotiators would be back in Geneva to make a new effort when the conference reconvenes Jan. 5.

The major stumbling block was the question of voting-procedures in a seven-nation commission that would direct a control scheme for policing a test ban.

U.S. delegation chief James J. Wadsworth said the talks had come a "not inconsiderable distance" since they began Oct. 31.

"There is no reason to assume we are so far apart that something cannot be done to adjust the differences," he said.

On the key issue of a control system, the Russians insist on unanimity among the three nuclar powers, which would be the permanent members of the seven-nation commission. This would give the three powers veto rights over such vital decisions as the dispatch of investigating teams to the site of a suspected nuclear explosion in violation of a ban.

The West rejects the Soviet stand, insisting that no nation should be able to stymie the work of the control organization.

Chrysler, UAW Settle Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Friday settled an 18-day strike that had idled 44,000 and cut off Chrysler's production of Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars.

Chrysler moved quickly to get back into the Big Three auto race. It summoned workers back to a key stamping plant in Detroit Friday and said they would work overtime Saturday.

It said others among some 30,000 idled in 18 Detroit plants would resume work Monday. Ten other U.S. and one Canadian plant will resume "as quickly as possible," with local management setting the schedule.

Of the 44,000 idled, only 7,100 actually were on strike. They walked out Dec. 2 at the key Dodge Main installation in Detroit. Dodge Main is a key supplier for all Chrysler divisions, as well as a Dodge assembly plant.

The principal issue revolved around relief time for 400 employes in the Dodge Main metal shop where unpainted bodies are processed.

California To Hit 15 Million People

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The State Department of Finance estimated Friday California's population will hit 15 million by Sunday.

That's on the basis of an average of 1,433 new people daily — 625 by natural increase and 808 through migration.

At this rate, California will top all other states by 1965, the department said.

California's population has jumped 104 per cent since 1940. The national increase during the period was 29 per cent.

New Santa Claus Mayor Namesake Of Archangel

SANTA CLAUS, Ind. (UPI)—The 106-year-old village of Santa Claus, Ind., Friday awaited the arrival of its new mayor, a namesake of the Archangel Michael who'll celebrate his 11th birthday Christmas Eve.

The heralded arrival Saturday of Michael Langenfield of Hastings, Minn., will mark his first visit to his domain. The red-haired, freckled-faced lad will succeed 11-year-old Heide Fowler of Dalhart, Tex., as honorary mayor of Santa Claus.

Michael was selected honorary mayor of the famed Hoosier community by three judges named by the Santa Claus Chamber of Commerce to wade through several hundred applications for the all-in-fun job.

Rules of the contest provided only that the mayor be born on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day within the last 12 years. Santa Claus, for all its important name, is unincorporated, and doesn't have to worry about residence or age requirements for its "officials."

The judges also picked as honorary Police Chief Hilton Reeves of Mt. Vernon, Ind., who will be 12 on Dec. 25.

Young Langenfeld—the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Langenfeld—is due to arrive at the Evansville, Ind., Airport wearing his official red velvet robe with white fur trim. The robe was flown to Chicago so Michael could wear it for his grand arrival.

Real-life Evansville officials and local children will greet the honorary mayor and his mother and fete him at a dinner Saturday night.

Attendance at church and a day's visit at the town of Santa Claus, 42 miles east of Evansville, is on the Sunday agenda.

Also waiting for Michael and his police chief will be a birthday party such as Christmas-born children seldom receive since their birth observance gets lost in the holiday festivities.

Ike Listens To Message

President Eisenhower listens closely to a recording of his own voice as broadcast from America's new 4½ ton satellite orbiting in outer space. The broadcast of Eisenhower's Christmas peace message from the satellite was picked up at Cape Canaveral and recorded there. Relayed to the Pentagon, it was then sent to the White House where the President listens while seated in the office of Press Secretary James Hagerty. (AP Photofax)

Turncoat G.I. Returns From Commie China

HONG KONG (AP) — A ringleader of the 21 American turncoats in the Korean War came back from Communist China Friday and said he left because life there was too tough for him.

But Richard G. Corden, 31, of East Providence, R. I., was full of praise for the Communist way of life and said he was sure communism would eventually triumph in the United States.

He charged the "imperialist" United States with using germ warfare in Korea, just as he did five years ago before disappearing behind the Bamboo Curtain from the prisoner-exchange point in Korea. At that time he acted as spokesman for the other turncoats.

"I firmly believe there is more democracy in Communist China than in the United States," Corden told newsmen. "I've got nothing to be ashamed of, I learned a lot."

He said he left because of homesickness and because he was forced to give up his studies. He said he never became a Communist party member.

Corden explained he was forced to give up his studies in ancient Chinese literature and lend a hand in the Communists' new drive to industrialize. Like many Chinese students who have traded their books for plows and pliers, Corden said he volunteered to lug baskets of earth on a dike project near Wuhan but "it was tough work and I could not keep it up."

Corden was dishonorably discharged by the Army along with his fellow turncoats.

He said he would like to use his knowledge of ancient Chinese literature in the United States. One of his biggest problems will be deciding what to do when he gets back home, he added.

He said he hopes to return to Rhode Island as soon as shipping becomes available.

The government contemplates no action against him and the U.S. consulate probably will put Corden on the first ship bound for the United States. He is the 10th turncoat to return from Red China. Corden said none of the remaining 10 want to leave. One of the turncoats died in Red China.

Three To Gallows

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — A British judge sentenced three more Greek Cypriots to death on Friday for carrying arms despite the fact that the governor of Cyprus reprieved two men from the gallows Thursday. Judge Sir Ragner Hyne told the men: "I have no alternative but to award death sentences." The penalty is mandatory under Cyprus emergency laws.

Viscose In Sale

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—American Viscose Corp. announced Friday it has nearly completed arrangements for the sale of its Filatex elastic yarn production facilities to a private group for an undisclosed price.

Grandmother, 70, Receives College A. B. Sheepskin

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 70-year-old grandmother joined 333 other graduates Friday to get her bachelor of arts degree—45 years late.

Mrs. Frances R. Timblin of Rockford, Ill., should have got her University of Chicago degree in 1913, but it was withheld because of two credit deficiencies by the standards of that time. A reevaluation by present standards showed Mrs. Timblin deserved her sheepskin.

"It's a wonderful feeling and coming back recalls many happy memories," the new grad said. "After all, this is where my husband and I did all our courting."

Presser Cited For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee voted unanimously Friday to cite William Presser of the Teamsters Union for contempt of Congress.

Presser is president of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters and the Teamsters Joint Council 41 in Cleveland. He also is a close associate of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) chairman of the committee, said it was also asking that the Justice Department "determine whether Presser has been guilty of perjury and the willful destruction and mutilation of records under subpoena."

Presser was called before the committee as a witness last summer. He took the Fifth Amendment to many questions.

Band Demonstrates

SWAFFHAM, England (UPI)—A band of British pacifists announced Friday another "non-violent" assault on a U.S. Air Force base to protest the construction of a multi-million dollar missile base. A government spokesman said local police have been alerted. The same group "invaded" the base three weeks ago and forced a three-hour interruption in work.

Space Station With Four-Man Crew Visioned

NEW YORK (AP) — An Atlas space station with a crew of four men could be circling the earth within five years, the makers of Atlas missiles said Friday.

The space station would be put into an orbit 400 miles over the earth with Atlas rocket power—the same power that put Thursday night's big U.S. satellite into space. But there are no formal plans for such a venture.

It is a brainchild of Krafft Ehricke, a former German V2 rocket expert and coworker of Wernher von Braun. Ehricke is a staff member of the Convair astronautics team that built Atlas.

A modified lightweight stainless steel shell would be the basic space station unit.

By adding a second stage to the Atlas, the rocket system would be able to deliver a crew of four or some 8,000 pounds of cargo into space.

This would qualify it as a cargo ship or a ferry vehicle between earth and the space station.

Of course, the Convair statement explains, the success of such a project would depend on the ability to bring a rocket ship back into the earth's atmosphere and land its human passengers safely.

But this capability could be attained by other defense projects in the next five years, the statement said.

Spanish Woman Held In Holdup, Slaying At Madrid

MADRID (AP)—Police arrested a Spanish woman Friday on charges of holding up a Spanish air force payroll truck, killing the driver, wounding the armed guard, and making off with 2,700,000 pesetas—$50,000.

The woman, who refused to give her name, was arrested in a nearby village a few hours later. Police had to protect her from villagers trying to lynch her. The payroll was intended mainly for workers from Alcobendas employed on an air force project there. The money was recovered.

Homesick Horse, Charlie, Ends Sentimental Journey

DUNMOW, England (UPI) — Charlie, the homesick horse, came to the end of his sentimental journey Friday. He finally was captured.

Police caught the six-year-old chestnut after he traveled on a straight line for seven days over 75 miles toward his old grazing grounds in Wales. His odyssey had captured the fancy of all England.

The end came at Banbury, in central England, due west of this farming community north of London. He had been sighted many times along the way, but he never stopped long enough for anyone to catch him—until Friday.

His owner, Mrs. Anne Tomkins, said Banbury police planned to bring the horse back to Dunmow.

Charlie's journey began last Friday when he found an open gate in Mrs. Tomkins' farm. He walked through it and headed toward the Welsh hillsides—200 miles away—from which he had been brought by train three months ago.

With the instinct of a homing pigeon, Charlie walked and trotted in a straight line westward toward Wales. He swam eight rivers, dodged traffic across six highways, went around several towns and passed between trains on a few main railway lines before he was captured.

Peace Plea By Ike Sent From Space

Recorded Voice Is Heard As Satellite Whirls In Its Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The voice of President Eisenhower broadcast from America's four-ton satellite in space Friday the classic Christmas message, "Peace on earth and good will toward men."

As the 85-foot Atlas rocket whirled in orbit past Cape Canaveral, Fla., its unique communications system flashed the recorded words:

"This is the President of the United States speaking.

"Through the marvels of scientific advance, my voice is coming to you from a satellite traveling in outer space.

"My message is a simple one. Through this unique means I convey to you and to all mankind America's wish for peace on earth and good will toward men everywhere."

The President recorded the message Tuesday, about 48 hours before the mightiest man-made object now in space roared from its Cape Canaveral launching pad at 6:02 p.m. EST Thursday.

Takes Big Stride

The spectacular firing proclaimed to the world that America has taken a tremendous stride in the race with Russia for space supremacy. It pulled U.S. military-scientific prestige to a new peak above the depths of 14 months ago when Russia's Sputnik 1 flashed aloft.

Eisenhower's message did two things. It emphasized, as he and the Pentagon did in announcing the launching Thursday night, the peaceful aspects of space exploration. And it dramatized the workability of an entirely new concept of space communication.

The 150-pound payload in the 8,700-pound Atlas contains a complex mechanism. It is designed to receive messages and, upon command signal, send them back to earth.

The first tryout Thursday night was partially successful. The message got to the satellite all right but came back garbled.

Picked Up At Cape

It was picked up by the Cape Canaveral communications center about 3:15 p.m. EST and relayed to the pentagon. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty played the Pentagon's recording for reporters in his office. At one point the voice faded to an indistinct garble. Hagerty later supplied the unheard words.

The radio bands on which the message was transmitted were 132.435 and 132.905 megacycles. Radio frequencies for tracking purposes were announced earlier as 107.97 and 107.94 megacycles.

Eisenhower, in high spirits, joined reporters at the White House to listen to the recording. Fiddling with his glasses in one hand, the President listened intently and expressed puzzlment

Woman Plays Mrs. Santa

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Once a year Mrs. Agnes Leverett uses her "nom de phone."

She becomes Mrs. Santa Claus to hundreds of children who write the jolly old gentleman.

The post office cooperates by delivering all letters addressed to Santa to her door. She goes through them, finds the family address, and places a call to the child, all in the name of Mrs. Claus.

"The youngsters undoubtedly get a thrill from the call," she says, "and they also get a little advice.

"I caution them to watch for cars when crossing the street, to say their prayers and to mind their mothers."

What makes her activities more unusual is the fact she is a cripple, confined to a wheelchair. Not wealthy herself, Mrs. Leverett is content to live without a carpet or curtains.

"As long as I have a roof and three meals a day, that's good enough. There are so many who have none."

She never promises the youngsters their Christmas wishes but tells them Santa will bring what he can.

The major stumbling block was the question of voting-procedures in a seven-nation commission that would direct a control scheme for policing a test ban.

U.S. delegation chief James J. Wadsworth said the talks had come a "not inconsiderable distance" since they began Oct. 31.

"There is no reason to assume we are so far apart that something cannot be done to adjust the differences," he said.

On the key issue of a control system, the Russians insist on unanimity among the three nuclear powers, which would be the permanent members of the seven-nation commission. This would give the three powers veto rights over such vital decisions as the dispatch of investigating teams to the site of a suspected nuclear explosion in violation of a ban.

The West rejects the Soviet stand, insisting that no nation should be able to stymie the work of the control organization.

Insurance Shows Big Policy Boom

NEW YORK (UPI) — An insurance executive said Friday that the demand for million-dollar life insurance policies was increasing. The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Springfield, Mass., sold 18 of the whopping policies this year, said Michael Marchese, underwriting vice president. The premiums cost a 35-year-old man $35,000 a year. For a man 60 years old, the annual tab is $60,000.

To Accept Bids

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The state oil monopoly YPF announced Friday it will accept bids from private firms to dig 4,500 wells for its account in six years.

New Santa Claus Mayor Namesake Of Archangel

The heralded arrival Saturday of Michael Langenfield of Hastings, Minn., will mark his first visit to his domain. The red-haired, freckled-faced lad will succeed 11-year-old Heide Fowler of Dalhart, Tex., as honorary mayor of Santa Claus.

Michael was selected honorary mayor of the famed Hoosier community by three judges named by the Santa Claus Chamber of Commerce to wade through several hundred applications for the all-in-fun job.

Rules of the contest provided only that the mayor be born on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day within the last 12 years. Santa Claus, for all its important name, is unincorporated, and doesn't have to worry about residence or age requirements for its "officials."

The judges also picked as honorary Police Chief Hilton Reeves of Mt. Vernon, Ind., who will be 12 on Dec. 25.

Young Langenfeld—the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Langenfeld—is due to arrive at the Evansville, Ind., Airport wearing his official red velvet robe with white fur trim. The robe was flown to Chicago so Michael could wear it for his grand arrival.

Real-life Evansville officials and local children will greet the honorary mayor and his mother and fete him at a dinner Saturday night.

Attendance at church and a day's visit at the town of Santa Claus, 42 miles east of Evansville, is on the Sunday agenda.

Chrysler, UAW Settle Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Friday settled an 18-day strike that had idled 44,000 and cut off Chrysler's production of Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars.

Chrysler moved quickly to get back into the Big Three auto race. It summoned workers back to a key stamping plant in Detroit Friday and said they would work overtime Saturday.

It said others among some 30,000 idled in 18 Detroit plants would resume work Monday. Ten other U.S. and one Canadian plant will resume "as quickly as possible," with local management setting the schedule.

Of the 44,000 idled, only 7,100 actually were on strike. They walked out Dec. 2 at the key Dodge Main installation in Detroit. Dodge Main is a key supplier for all Chrysler divisions, as well as a Dodge assembly plant.

The principal issue revolved around relief time for 400 employes in the Dodge Main metal shop where unpainted bodies are processed.

California To Hit 15 Million People

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The State Department of Finance estimated Friday California's population will hit 15 million by Sunday.

That's on the basis of an average of 1,433 new people daily — 625 by natural increase and 808 through migration.

At this rate, California will top all other states by 1965, the department said.

California's population has jumped 104 per cent since 1940. The national increase during the period was 29 per cent.

Ike Listens To Message

President Eisenhower listens closely to a recording of his own voice as broadcast from America's new 4½ ton satellite orbiting in outer space. The broadcast of Eisenhower's Christmas peace message from the satellite was picked up at Cape Canaveral and recorded there. Relayed to the Pentagon, it was then sent to the White House where the President listens while seated in the office of Press Secretary James Hagerty. (AP Photofax)

Turncoat G.I. Returns From Commie China

HONG KONG (AP) — A ringleader of the 21 American turncoats in the Korean War came back from Communist China Friday and said he left because life there was too tough for him.

But Richard G. Corden, 31, of East Providence, R. I., was full of praise for the Communist way of life and said he was sure communism would eventually triumph in the United States.

He charged the "imperialist" United States with using germ warfare in Korea, just as he did five years ago before disappearing behind the Bamboo Curtain from the prisoner-exchange point in Korea. At that time he acted as spokesman for the other turncoats.

"I firmly believe there is more democracy in Communist China than in the United States," Corden told newsmen. "I've got nothing to be ashamed of, I learned a lot."

He said he left because of homesickness and because he was forced to give up his studies. He said he never became a Communist party member.

Corden explained he was forced to give up his studies in ancient Chinese literature and lend a hand in the Communists' new drive to industrialize. Like many Chinese students who have traded their books for plows and pliers, Corden said he volunteered to lug baskets of earth on a dike project near Wuhan but "it was tough work and I could not keep it up."

Corden was dishonorably discharged by the Army along with his fellow turncoats.

He said he would like to use his knowledge of ancient Chinese literature in the United States. One of his biggest problems will be deciding what to do when he gets back home, he added.

He said he hopes to return to Rhode Island as soon as shipping becomes available.

The government contemplates no action against him and the U.S. consulate probably will put Corden on the first ship bound for the United States. He is the 10th turncoat to return from Red China. Corden said none of the remaining 10 want to leave. One of the turncoats died in Red China.

Three To Gallows

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — A British judge sentenced three more Greek Cypriots to death on Friday for carrying arms despite the fact that the governor of Cyprus reprieved two men from the gallows Thursday. Judge Sir Ragner Hyne told the men: "I have no alternative but to award death sentences." The penalty is mandatory under Cyprus emergency laws.

Viscose In Sale

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—American Viscose Corp. announced Friday it has nearly completed arrangements for the sale of its Filatex elastic yarn production facilities to a private group for an undisclosed price.

Grandmother, 70, Receives College A. B. Sheepskin

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 70-year-old grandmother joined 333 other graduates Friday to get her bachelor of arts degree—45 years late.

Mrs. Frances R. Timblin of Rockford, Ill., should have got her University of Chicago degree in 1913, but it was withheld because of two credit deficiencies by the standards of that time. A reevaluation by present standards showed Mrs. Timblin deserved her sheepskin.

"It's a wonderful feeling and coming back recalls many happy memories," the new grad said. "After all, this is where my husband and I did all our courting."

Presser Cited For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee voted unanimously Friday to cite William Presser of the Teamsters Union for contempt of Congress.

Presser is president of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters and the Teamsters Joint Council 41 in Cleveland. He also is a close associate of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) chairman of the committee, said it was also asking that the Justice Department "determine whether Presser has been guilty of perjury and the willful destruction and mutilation of records under subpoena."

Presser was called before the committee as a witness last summer. He took the Fifth Amendment to many questions.

Band Demonstrates

SWAFFHAM, England (UPI)—A band of British pacifists announced Friday another "non-violent" assault on a U.S. Air Force base to protest the construction of a multi-million dollar missile base. A government spokesman said local police had been alerted. The same group "invaded" the base three weeks ago and forced a three-hour interruption in work.

Homesick Horse, Charlie, Ends Sentimental Journey

DUNMOW, England (UPI) — Charlie, the homesick horse, came to the end of his sentimental journey Friday. He finally was captured.

Police caught the six-year-old chestnut after he traveled on a straight line for seven days over 75 miles toward his old grazing grounds in Wales. His odyssey had captured the fancy of all England.

The end came at Banbury, in central England, due west of this farming community north of London. He had been sighted many times along the way, but he never let anyone get close enough to catch him—until Friday.

His owner, Mrs. Anne Tomkins, said Banbury police planned to bring the horse back to Dunmow.

Charlie's journey began last Friday when he found an open gate on Mrs. Tomkins' farm. He walked through it and headed toward the Welsh hillsides—200 miles away—from which he had been brought by train three months ago.

With the instinct of a homing pigeon, Charlie walked and trotted in a straight line westward toward Wales. He swam eight rivers, dodged traffic across six highways, went through several towns and passed between trains on a few main railway lines before he was captured.

Space Station With Four-Man Crew Visioned

NEW YORK (AP) — An Atlas space station with a crew of four men could be circling the earth within five years, the makers of Atlas missiles said Friday.

The space station would be put into an orbit 400 miles over the earth with Atlas rocket power—the same power that put Thursday night's big U.S. satellite into space. But there are no formal plans for such a venture.

It is a brainchild of Krafft Ehricke, a former German V2 rocket expert and coworker of Wernher von Braun. Ehricke is a staff member of the Convair astronautics team that built Atlas.

A modified lightweight stainless steel shell would be the basic space station unit.

By adding a second stage to the Atlas, the rocket system would be able to deliver a crew of four or some 8,000 pounds of cargo into space.

This would qualify it as a cargo ship or a ferry vehicle between earth and the space station.

Of course, the Convair statement explains, the success of such a project would depend on the ability to bring a rocket ship back into the earth's atmosphere and land its human passengers safely.

But this capability could be attained by other defense projects in the next five years, the statement said.

Spanish Woman Held In Holdup, Slaying At Madrid

MADRID (AP)—Police arrested a Spanish woman Friday on charges of holding up a Spanish air force payroll truck, killing the driver, wounding the armed guard, and making off with 2,700,000 pesetas—$50,000.

The woman, who refused to give her name, was arrested in a nearby village a few hours later. Police had to protect her from villagers trying to lynch her. The payroll was intended mainly for workers from Alcobendas employed on an air force project there. The money was recovered.

Peace Plea By Ike Sent From Space

Recorded Voice Is Heard As Satellite Whirls In Its Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The voice of President Eisenhower broadcast from America's four-ton satellite in space Friday the classic Christmas message, "Peace on earth and good will toward men."

As the 85-foot Atlas rocket whirled in orbit past Cape Canaveral, Fla., its unique communications system flashed the recorded words:

"This is the President of the United States speaking.

"Through the marvels of scientific advance, my voice is coming to you from a satellite traveling in outer space.

"My message is a simple one. Through this unique means I convey to you and to all mankind America's wish for peace on earth and good will toward men everywhere."

The President recorded the message Tuesday, about 48 hours before the mightiest man-made object now in space roared from its Cape Canaveral launching pad at 6:02 p.m. EST Thursday.

Takes Big Stride

The spectacular firing proclaimed to the world that America has taken a tremendous stride in the race with Russia for space supremacy. It pulled U.S. military-scientific prestige to a new peak above the depths of 14 months ago when Russia's Sputnik I flashed aloft.

Eisenhower's message did two things. It emphasized, as he and the Pentagon did in announcing the launching Thursday night, the peaceful aspects of space exploration. And it dramatized the workability of an entirely new concept of space communication.

The 150-pound payload in the 8,700-pound Atlas contains a complex mechanism. It is designed to receive messages and, upon command signal, send them back to earth.

The first tryout Thursday night was partially successful. The message got to the satellite all right but came back garbled.

Picked Up At Cape

It was picked up by the Cape Canaveral communications center about 3:15 p.m. EST and relayed to the pentagon. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty played the Pentagon's recording for reporters in his office. At one point the voice faded to an indistinct garble. Hagerty later supplied the unheard words.

The radio bands on which the message was transmitted were 132.435 and 132.905 megacycles. Radio frequencies for tracking purposes were announced earlier as 107.97 and 107.94 megacycles.

Eisenhower, in high spirits, joined reporters at the White House to listen to the recording. Fiddling with his glasses in one hand, the President listened intently and expressed puzzlment

Woman Plays Mrs. Santa

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Once a year Mrs. Agnes Leverett uses her "nom de phone."

She becomes Mrs. Santa Claus to hundreds of children who write the jolly old gentleman.

The post office cooperates by delivering all letters addressed to Santa to her door. She goes through them, finds the family address, and places a call to the child, all in the name of Mrs. Claus.

"The youngsters undoubtedly get a thrill from the call," she says, "and they also get a little advice.

"I caution them to watch for cars when crossing the street, to say their prayers and to mind their mothers."

What makes her activities more unusual is the fact she is a cripple, confined to a wheelchair. Not wealthy herself, Mrs. Leverett is content to live without a carpet or curtains.

"As long as I have a roof and three meals a day, that's good enough. There are so many who need more."

She never promises the youngsters all they request but tells them Santa will bring what he can.

Norstad Warns Soviet Against NATO Attack

PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Lauris Norstad told the Soviet Union Friday to have "no misunderstanding" about NATO's decision to retaliate with nuclear weapons if attacked.

Norstad, the NATO supreme commander in Europe, said the Soviets risked "total annihilation" if they committed aggression in Europe.

"There must be absolutely no misunderstanding about the determination of this alliance to use nuclear weapons in case of aggression," he said.

Norstad delivered the warning in an address to the assembly of the seven-nation West European Union Alliance — Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said the defense shield forces under his command were designed to give an enemy a chance to pause and consider the consequences of pressing an aggression and then make a decision.

"...And when he takes it he must do so in the full knowledge that he risks total annihilation because we are determined to use all the forces at our disposal," Norstad said.

He ventured the opinion that it was "improbable if not impossibile" that the Russians would decide to wage war, knowing NATOs strength.

He explained that his present strategy was based on gradual equipment of NATO forces with the most modern nuclear and missile weapons which would make it possible to reduce the ground forces to a minimum.

He said he was favorably impressed by the decision taken by the NATO Council here this week to push through a five-year plan along those lines.

He recalled the council's decision at its Paris summit meeting a year ago to accept nuclear stockpiles and missile bases in Europe.

that one sentence was garbled.

"But it didn't hurt the message any," the President said.

The Atlas path will follow a line roughly, from below San Diego through central Texas to Savannah, Ga., and may be visible as much as 500 miles north of the line. Nobody in Russia will be able to spot it.

It was launched west-to-east at an angle of 32 degrees to the equator. It's 17,000-mile-an-hour speed whisks it around the globe each 101 minutes at altitudes varying between 114 and 928 miles, at the latest estimate.

Spotted Visually

The first visual spotting was by moonwatchers at El Paso, Tex., at 9:30 p.m. EST Thursday. They said it glowed at 1½ magnitude, just a little brighter than stars in the Milky Way.

It was clear the U.S. government was going all out to exploit its achievement.

Not only did Eisenhower personally announce it — Thursday night at a White House diplomatic dinner—but the Voice of America promptly began beaming Eisenhower's space-recording over its worldwide radio network. In addition, it was made available to all U.S. radio-TV networks.

The same Christmas message is to be used until after Christmas. Then, a New Year's message from the President will be substituted.

The remarkable radio package includes a tape recorder, receiver, transmitter and control device and batteries. It was built to last 20 days, the life expectancy of the satellite.

Foreign reaction to the feat was almost uniformly favorable. Even from Moscow, officially silent, came a good-sport comment by a cab driver: "Good. It gives us competition." A spokesman at Moscow's planetarium called it interesting. Moscow radio broadcast the news to the Russian people without comment.

Christmas Cash Almost Lost

BALTIMORE (AP) — After a year of secret saving, Stephan Buschman had $251 to buy surprise Christmas presents for his family.

Thursday his unsuspecting wife gave away the suit in which Buschman had been hiding the money.

Friday, after an extensive search at the Volunteers of America building where the suit had been taken, Buschman got back his cash.

Judge Convicts Goldfine For Court Contempt

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—A federal judge convicted New England industrialist Bernard Goldfine Friday of criminal contempt for not complying with a court order to produce records of one of his textile mills in a tax probe.

U. S. Dist. Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. handed down his ruling about the time the 67-year-old Goldfine was pleading innocent in Washington to a contempt of Congress indictment.

Blonde Mildred Paperman, Goldfine's secretary for many years, also was convicted in two counts involving records of other mills. Both were directed to appear in court Monday for sentencing.

The law prescribes no fixed penalty. It is at the court's discretion. The conviction can be appealed.

If convicted of contempt of Congress, Goldfine would face a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Goldfine is due in the same Boston court Monday on another charge of contempt. The Securities and Exchange Commission asked that Goldfine's East Boston Co. be cited for contempt for failure to file financial reports.

His conviction Friday concerned records of Lebanon Mills of Lebanon, N. H. Miss Paperman's conviction was on courts dealing with Strathmore Mills, Boston, and George Mabbett & Sons Co. Plymouth, Mass., other Goldfine enterprises.

In Washington, Goldfine was called to answer charges he refused to tell House investigators enough about his financial dealings.

A House subcommittee turned up evidence Goldfine made gifts to former presidential aide Sherman Adams and other political figures. Adams and Goldfine said they stemmed from long friendship. Although he denied any wrongdoing, Adams resigned.

The 18-count Washington indictment does not deal with these matters, but rather with Goldfine's silence to subcommittee questions last July about $104,973 in cash withdrawn by himself and others from the Boston Port Development Co., a real estate firm Goldfine controls.

Goldfine contended the questions were not relevant to the subcommittee's announced task of checking federal agencies.

March 16 was set for trial. Goldfine posted a $1,000 bond.

Roy Johnson Autograph On Hull Of Atlas

WASHINGTON (UPI) —America's newest orbiting satellite bears on its silvery hull the grease-pencil autograph of Roy W. Johnson, director of the Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Johnson told reporters he signed his name on the giant Atlas missile at Convair's California plant last June 6 when it was slected for its mission into space.

Soviet Group Backs Ouster

LONDON (UPI) —The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party Friday gave sweeping approval of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's five years of party control and his ouster of dissenters from high offices.

A Moscow Radio broadcast from Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the Central Committee "has fully approved" Khrushchev's report on agriculture over the past five years.

A committee decree said the period "marked a new stage in the development and consolidation of the collective farming system and of all our socialist system."

It lashed out at the "anti-party" group of former premiers Nikolai Bulganin and Georgi Malenkov, former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich, and former foreign ministers V. M. Molotov and Dmitri Shepilov.

"Now it is clear to everybody how shamefully that despised group of reactionaries failed when disclosed and destroyed by the Communist Party Central Committee and rejected by the party and the people," the committee communique said.

Brigitte Wins War On Show

PARIS (UPI)—French movie actress Brigitte Bardot lost a battle Friday, but won the war in her campaign against a Paris girlie show she claimed would hurt her reputation.

The show, originally titled "Let's Go, Bardot" (Ca va Bardot) is in rehearsal at the Comedie Caumartion, a theater which specializes in semi-nude reviews for tourists.

Last Wednesday, Miss Bardot appealed to a court to send a bailiff to watch rehearsals and report on the show. She said she wanted the name changed because it held her up to ridicule. The show itself, she asserted, was full of indecent language and "naked women who look like me."

Judge Rene Mastre turned down Miss Bardot's request Friday, ruling that the show was still in rehearsal and could not be judged yet.

Miss Bardot, known to moviegoers as the "French sex-kitten," was not in court.

However, she and the show's producers reached an agreement out of court Thursday. The producers consented to rename the show. The producers also were said to be ready to revise the script.

Destroyer Crew Puts Out Tanker Fire

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI) — Crewmen from the U.S. 6th Fleet destroyer Pierce succeeded Friday in putting out a fire which burned for 56 hours aboard the NATO storage tanker Marador. Two Greek crewmen aboard the tanker were killed in an explosion that preceded the fire. The accident occurred while the Marador was transferring oil to the U.S. navy ship Ocklawaha in Iskenderun in southeastern Turkey.

Norstad Warns Soviet Against NATO Attack

PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Lauris Norstad told the Soviet Union Friday to have "no misunderstanding" about NATO's decision to retaliate with nuclear weapons if attacked.

Norstad, the NATO supreme commander in Europe, said the Soviets risked "total annihilation" if they committed aggression in Europe.

"There must be absolutely no misunderstanding about the determination of this alliance to use nuclear weapons in case of aggression," he said.

Norstad delivered the warning in an address to the assembly of the seven-nation West European Union Alliance — Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said the defense shield forces under his command were designed to give an enemy a chance to pause and consider the consequences of pressing an aggression and then make a decision.

". . . And when he takes it he must do so in the full knowledge that he risks total annihilation because we are determined to use all the forces at our disposal," Norstad said.

He ventured the opinion that it was "improbable if not impossibile" that the Russians would decide to wage war, knowing NATOs strength.

He explained that his present strategy was based on gradual equipment of NATO forces with the most modern nuclear and missile weapons which would make it possible to reduce the ground forces to a minimum.

He said he was favorably impressed by the decision taken by the NATO Council here this week to push through a five-year plan along those lines.

He recalled the council's decision at its Paris summit meeting a year ago to accept nuclear stockpiles and missile bases in Europe.

that one sentence was garbled.

"But it didn't hurt the message any," the President said.

The Atlas path will follow a line roughly, from below San Diego through central Texas to Savannah, Ga., and may be visible as much as 500 miles north of the line. Nobody in Russia will be able to spot it.

It was launched west-to-east at an angle of 32 degrees to the equator. It's 17,000-mile-an-hour speed whisks it around the globe each 101 minutes at altitudes varying between 114 and 928 miles, at the latest estimate.

Spotted Visually

The first visual spotting was by moonwatchers at El Paso, Tex., at 9:30 p.m. EST Thursday. They said it glowed at 1½ magnitude, just a little brighter than stars in the Milky Way.

It was clear the U.S. government was going all out to exploit its achievement.

Not only did Eisenhower personally announce it — Thursday night at a White House diplomatic dinner—but the Voice of America promptly began beaming Eisenhower's space-recording over its worldwide radio network. In addition, it was made available to all U.S. radio-TV networks.

The same Christmas message is to be used until after Christmas. Then, a New Year's message from the President will be substituted.

The remarkable radio package includes a tape recorder, receiver, transmitter and control device and batteries. It was built to last 20 days, the life expectancy of the satellite.

Foreign reaction to the feat was almost uniformly favorable. Even from Moscow, officially silent, came a good-sport comment by a cab driver: "Good. It gives us competition." A spokesman at Moscow's planetarium called it interesting. Moscow radio broadcast the news to the Russian people without comment.

Judge Convicts Goldfine For Court Contempt

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—A federal judge convicted New England industrialist Bernard Goldfine Friday of criminal contempt for not complying with a court order to produce records of one of his textile mills in a tax probe.

U. S. Dist. Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. handed down his ruling about the time the 67-year-old Goldfine was pleading innocent in Washington to a contempt of Congress indictment.

Blonde Mildred Paperman, Goldfine's secretary for many years, also was convicted in two counts involving records of other mills. Both were directed to appear in court Monday for sentencing.

The law prescribes no fixed penalty. It is at the court's discretion. The conviction can be appealed.

If convicted of contempt of Congress, Goldfine would face a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Goldfine is due in the same Boston court Monday on another charge of contempt. The Securities and Exchange Commission asked that Goldfine's East Boston Co. be cited for contempt for failure to file financial reports.

His conviction Friday concerned records of Lebanon Mills of Lebanon, N. H. Miss Paperman's conviction was on courts dealing with Strathmore Mills, Boston, and George Mabbett & Sons Co. Plymouth, Mass., other Goldfine enterprises.

In Washington, Goldfine was called to answer charges he refused to tell House investigators enough about his financial dealings.

A House subcommittee turned up evidence Goldfine made gifts to former presidential aide Sherman Adams and other political figures. Adams and Goldfine said they stemmed from long friendship. Althoug' he denied any wrongdoing, Adams resigned.

The 18-count Washington indictment does not deal with these matters, but rather with Goldfine's silence to subcommittee questions last July about $104,973 in cash withdrawn by himself and others from the Boston Port Development Co., a real estate firm Goldfine controls.

Goldfine contended the questions were not relevant to the subcommittee's announced task of checking federal agencies.

March 16 was set for trial. Goldfine posted a $1,000 bond.

Roy Johnson Autograph On Hull Of Atlas

WASHINGTON (UPI) —America's newest orbiting satellite bears on its silvery hull the grease-pencil autograph of Roy W. Johnson, director of the Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Johnson told reporters he signed his name on the giant Atlas missile at Convair's California plant last June 6 when it was slected for its mission into space.

Soviet Group Backs Ouster

LONDON (UPI) —The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party Friday gave sweeping approval of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's five years of party control and his ouster of dissenters from high offices.

A Moscow Radio broadcast from Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the Central Committee "has fully approved" Khrushchev's report on agriculture over the past five years.

A committee decree said the period "marked a new stage in the development and consolidation of the collective farming system and of all our socialist system."

It lashed out at the "anti-party" group of former premiers Nikolai Bulganin and Georgi Malenkov, former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich, and former foreign ministers V. M. Molotov and Dmitri Shepilov.

"Now it is clear to everybody how shamefully that despised group of reactionaries failed when disclosed and destroyed by the Communist Party Central Committee and rejected by the party and the people," the committee communique said.

Brigitte Wins War On Show

PARIS (UPI)—French movie actress Brigitte Bardot lost a battle Friday, but won the war in her campaign against a Paris girlie show she claimed would hurt her reputation.

The show, originally titled "Let's Go, Bardot" (Ca va Bardot) is in rehearsal at the Comedie Caumartion, a theater which specializes in semi-nude reviews for tourists.

Last Wednesday, Miss Bardot appealed to a court to send a bailiff to watch rehearsals and report on the show. She said she wanted the name changed because it held her up to ridicule. The show itself, she asserted, was full of indecent language and "naked women who look like me."

Judge Rene Mastre turned down Miss Bardot's request Friday, ruling that the show was still in rehearsal and could not be judged yet.

Miss Bardot, known to movie-goers as the "French sex-kitten," was not in court.

However, she and the show's producers reached an agreement out of court Thursday. The producers consented to rename the show. The producers also were said to be ready to revise the script.

Destroyer Crew Puts Out Tanker Fire

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI) — Crewmen from the U.S. 6th Fleet destroyer Pierce succeeded Friday in putting out a fire which burned for 56 hours aboard the NATO storage tanker Marador. Two Greek crewmen aboard the tanker were killed in an explosion that preceded the fire. The accident occurred while the Marador was transferring oil to the U.S. navy ship Ocklawaha in Iskenderun in southeastern Turkey.

The first grade teacher in a local school found herself in a dilemma the other day—she needed a Christmas tree for the classroom.

So one of her pupils decided he was going to get his teacher a tree. With a nickel in his pocket he began shopping around.

He walked into a local store and went behind the counter and tugged on the clerk's dress and said that his teacher needed a tree and he wanted to buy one.

When he learned the store keeper had no five-cent trees he decided to just take one because his teacher needed a tree. The proprietor followed the little boy and after he picked up a tree and started away the man decided to give him a small one.

City Asks Tax

to the Cumberland Fire Department, which costs taxpayers about a quarter of a million dollars a year.

The Juvenile Court, he added, is purely a county function, yet the City of Cumberland must, by law, contribute $2,500 a year toward its support.

To a query from Delegate Estel C. Kelley as to why the city cannot, under Home Rule, eliminate the $2,500, Mr. Carscaden said he did not think the city could change the law.

The city advised the legislators that if the county library plan is adopted, with a resulting two cent boost in the county tax rate, the city would halt its present support to the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The Delegation was asked to consider a new formula for the distribution of state road funds. It was pointed out that the city gets $800 a year per mile to maintain roads.

Questions Fairness

The allowance is not fair to the city, Mr. Carscaden said, since the city must maintain higher type roads than the county, and must keep them clean.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, asked if there were a chance of reintroducing a plan to give municipalities a share of speeding fines.

Allegany County, it was pointed out, gets $3 from every state traffic charge in the city, while the city maintains expensive radar equipment to control speeding but gets nothing at all from its speeding cases.

Mr. Gibson said the Home Rule froze the city's tax sources and that the city should have the right to tap certain sources of revenue as does Baltimore City.

Cites Crossing Guards

The Board of Education, Mr. Carscaden said, should pay the cost of Cumberland's crossing guards, as is done in Salisbury.

Senator See said the city has a perfect right to charge rent for the Health Department quarters. A city spokesman said the Council was just telling the Delegation about the problem as "the State Health Department will run to you" when the request is made.

Mr. Carscaden asked the Allegany County Delegation to advise it whenever legislation affecting the City of Cumberland comes up.

A digest of all bills will be sent to the city, Del. Driscoll promised.

Senator See pointed out that much of the legislation the city wants should be sponsored by the Maryland Municipal League.

He said the proposal to give cities a share of speeding revenues failed because "there are more county than city boys, and Baltimore already gets the $3 a case."

The Juvenile Court, Sen. See agreed, is a county function, and handles as many county as city cases.

Del. Driscoll pledged that the Delegation will work with the city in its problems.

Mentioned as possible sources of revenue by Mayor Keech were a $2 tax on car registrations and a one cent cigaret tax.

City Asks Tax

to the Cumberland Fire Department, which costs taxpayers about a quarter of a million dollars a year.

The Juvenile Court, he added, is purely a county function, yet the City of Cumberland must, by law, contribute $2,500 a year toward its support.

To a query from Delegate Estel C. Kelley as to why the city cannot, under Home Rule, eliminate the $2,500, Mr. Carscaden said he did not think the city could change the law.

The city advised the legislators that if the county library plan is adopted, with a resulting two cent boost in the county tax rate, the city would halt its present support to the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The Delegation was asked to consider a new formula for the distribution of state road funds. It was pointed out that the city gets $800 a year per mile to maintain roads.

Questions Fairness

The allowance is not fair to the city, Mr. Carscaden said, since the city must maintain higher type roads than the county, and must keep them clean.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, asked if there were a chance of reintroducing a plan to give municipalities a share of speeding fines.

Allegany County, it was pointed out, gets $3 from every state traffic charge in the city, while the city maintains expensive radar equipment to control speeding but gets nothing at all from its speeding cases.

Mr. Gibson said the Home Rule froze the city's tax sources and that the city should have the right to tap certain sources of revenue as does Baltimore City.

Cites Crossing Guards

The Board of Education, Mr. Carscaden said, should pay the cost of Cumberland's crossing guards, as is done in Salisbury.

Senator See said the city has a perfect right to charge rent for the Health Department quarters. A city spokesman said the Council was just telling the Delegation about the problem as "the State Health Department will run to you" when the request is made.

Mr. Carscaden asked the Allegany County Delegation to advise it whenever legislation affecting the City of Cumberland comes up.

A digest of all bills will be sent to the city, Del. Driscoll promised.

Senator See pointed out that much of the legislation the city wants should be sponsored by the Maryland Municipal League.

He said the proposal to give cities a share of speeding revenues failed because "there are more county than city boys, and Baltimore already gets the $3 a case."

The Juvenile Court, Sen. See agreed, is a county function, and handles as many county as city cases.

Del. Driscoll pledged that the Delegation will work with the city in its problems.

Mentioned as possible sources of revenue by Mayor Keech were a $2 tax on car registrations and a one cent cigaret tax.

What Do Christmas Gifts Mean?

As the holiday season draws near, naturally your thoughts turn to Christmas. To some Christmas means giving material gifts; to others it means celebrating Christ's birth—the gift of God's Son.

What does giving at Christmas mean to you, asks Mrs. Jeanne Moehn, family life specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service. It is said that it is more blessed to give than to receive. You can make this holiday season and the New Year happier for the home and elsewhere by giving.

Consider the gifts which means far more to all persons than the gifts money can buy—consideration, courteousness, thoughtfulness and kindness. These gifts are worth much more than the material which cost so much money, says the specialist.

When a large corporation brings someone into its force, it looks for the person who knows how to meet people. It expects him to be courteous, considerate and thoughtful. The person chosen for the job is one who will be able to control himself when things are rough.

Why not apply this same principle to your home? Make it your gift at Christmas time to your family. Your home is one place where the gifts of consideration, thoughtfulness, courteousness and kindness will be more than well received.

Check yourself to see if you express yourself too freely, giving no thought as to how it hurts another member of your family. Instead be considerate and understanding of the feelings of others just as the successful personnel director of a large firm who understands how to work more happily with his group.

Here's another way to make Christmas a happier one. Before the holiday our streets and stores are crowded with Christmas shoppers. How do you act when you get into the crowd? Are you considerate of others? Do you push ahead in line or are you courteous and take your turn?

It is to be opened by the last two members of the class.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Comb A "Party Look" Into Your Hair

The holiday season is just ahead with all sorts of gay festivities. So, comb a "party look" into your hair. It deserves special attention —for hair is a feature that people notice first.

You can be your own hairdresser. All you need is a self-styling hair spray, a comb, a brush, a handful of clips and rollers and, of course, your own nimble fingers.

Select the basic hair style that you know is best related to your face-shape and features. Then experiment with slight variations of that. A certain amount of change is necessary and stimulating, but there is one basic hair contour that gives your face and figure its best balance. It should be conserved in imaginative but sensible style variation.

You might want to experiment with feathery bangs. The trick is to spray your hair before you comb it, not after. Comb bangs back off forehead and place a large roll of cotton across the brow, tucking the ends under. When dry, remove cotton and with comb (or brush) lift from underneath to fluff out bangs. With a comb or brush you can coax a curl or push in a wave exactly where you want it.

For a bubble-headed look, comb hair smooth, then spray. Turn two giant mesh rollers under on each side. At the top, turn a single roller away from your face and spray again. When dry, remove rollers. For the comb-out, lift top hair high and dry at the sides. If you want more of the Empire look, put a row of rollers across the top of your hair to the back and lift the hair higher toward the back when combing out after it's dry.

These are just a few of the many styling tricks to try. Hours later, if you want to refresh your style, just dampen your comb and run it through your hair. The waves and curls will bounce back into place.

For holiday glamor, top your hairdo with party decorations. Bobby pin or clip them to your hair. Use tiny tree ornaments, shiny bells or holly.

MONDAY: Be a Christmas Ornament.

Omicron Chapter, BSP To Operate Yule Booth

Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, is sponsoring the Christmas Decorations booth for its scholarship fund. Previous years the Beta Sigma Phi City Council has conducted the booth at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets, but discontinued it this year. So members of Omicron Chapter decided to conduct the booth for the benefit of the chapter scholarship fund. Any high school student in Allegany County is eligible for the scholarship.

The booth will be operated December 22 and 23 from 10 a. m., until 8 p. m. There will be mistletoe, two kinds of holly, the white and green; pine roping, Christmas centerpieces, pine wreaths, bunches of Oregon cedar, bunches of pine and crows foot.

Miss Deloris Chase is in charge of the booth. She is being assisted by Mrs. Betty Taylor and Miss Ellen Newnam, co-chairmen, and other members of the sorority.

The chapter Christmas party was held Tuesday evening in the form of a dinner at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Instead of the usual Christmas baskets, the money needed for them, and for jingle gifts was spent to purchase gifts for the patients at the County Home.

The invocation was offered by Miss LeAnnah Matthews and Mrs. Martha VanHorn extended the greetings. The program entitled, "Thoughts of Christmas," consisted of brief readings on Christmas by each member, including the origin of the carols, Yule log, manger, bells and Christmas tree. There also was group singing of carols and two pieces of poetry, "A Little Bit of Christmas," by Mrs. Emma Brugh; and "As Fine a Friend as You," by Mrs. LaVerne Hankins.

Santa distributed gifts and secret sisters were revealed. Miss Patricia Golden showed slides of her trip to northern Europe last summer.

The table decorations consisted of pine branches, pine cones, Christmas bells, red and green candles. The same motif was repeated in the programs, which were red and green bells sprinkled with silver glitter. Each received nativity scenes and novelty gifts as favors.

Attending were Mrs. Helen Arthur, Mrs. Alpha Barb, Miss Ruth Barry, Mrs. Faith Bradley, Miss Chase, Mrs. Mary Harrison, Mrs. Catherine Koon, Miss Helen Mae Kreiling, Mrs. Anna Kurtz, Mrs. Maxine Luck, Mrs. Sarah Mullaney, Miss Newnam, Mrs. Charlotte Northcraft, Mrs. Barbara Richardson, Miss Shirley Sandsbury, Mrs. Estaleen Shanholtz, Mrs. Eve Sliviak, Miss Margaret Smith, Mrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Virginia Newnam, social sponsor.

The next business session will be held January 6 at the home of Mrs. Emma Brugh, Ware's Avenue, LaVale.

Club Has Yule Party

Gold and white reindeer and sleigh filled with gold balls and white tapers with gold and white ceramic cherubs were combined with poinsettias and evergreens in the decorations of the Woman's Civic Club house for the annual Christmas luncheon Thursday, which was attended by 200 members. Mrs. Edward Dove presided and Mrs. John S. Cook gave the invocation. Christmas music was played by Mrs. Marvin Andrews. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Seth Harter.

The Allegany High Mixed Octet sang under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willison with Sandra Myers at the piano. It includes Carol Blackburn, Jane Geare, Willeta Mauk, Adela Roberts, Clyde Bantz, Fred Eichner, Kenneth Moreland and Bert Lazarus. Mrs. Harry Barton led the group singing. Mrs. C. A. List reported Mrs. William Kaldor was accepted as a member. The meeting closed with a candllight service and singing, "Silent Night."

Decorations were by the Art group. The American Home group was in charge of the luncheon, assisted by the Communications committee.

What Do Christmas Gifts Mean?

As the holiday season draws near, naturally your thoughts turn to Christmas. To some Christmas means giving material gifts; to others it means celebrating Christ's birth—the gift of God's Son.

What does giving at Christmas mean to you, asks Mrs. Jeanne Moehn, family life specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service. It is said that it is more blessed to give than to receive. You can make this holiday season and the New Year happier for the home and elsewhere by giving.

Consider the gifts which means far more to all persons than the gifts money can buy—consideration, courteousness, thoughtfulness and kindness. These gifts are worth much more than the material which cost so much money, says the specialist.

When a large corporation brings someone into its force, it looks for the person who knows how to meet people. It expects him to be courteous, considerate and thoughtful. The person chosen for the job is one who will be able to control himself when things are rough.

Why not apply this same principle to your home? Make it your gift at Christmas time to your family. Your home is one place where the gifts of consideration, thoughtfulness, courteousness and kindness will be more than well received.

Check yourself to see if you express yourself too freely, giving no thought as to how it hurts another member of your family. Instead be considerate and understanding of the feelings of others just as the successful personnel director of a large firm who understands how to work more happily with his group.

Here's another way to make Christmas a happier one. Before the holiday our streets and stores are crowded with Christmas shoppers. How do you act when you get into the crowd? Are you considerate of others? Do you push ahead in line or are you courteous and take your turn?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Comb A "Party Look" Into Your Hair

The holiday season is just ahead with all sorts of gay festivities. So, comb a "party look" into your hair. It deserves special attention—for hair is a feature that people notice first.

You can be your own hairdresser. All you need is a self-styling hair spray, a comb, a brush, a handful of clips and rollers and, of course, your own nimble fingers.

Select the basic hair style that you know is best related to your face-shape and features. Then experiment with slight variations of that. A certain amount of change is necessary and stimulating, but there is one basic hair contour that gives your face and figure its best balance. It should be conserved in imaginative but sensible style variation.

You might want to experiment with feathery bangs. The trick is to spray your hair before you comb it, not after. Comb bangs back off forehead and place a large roll of cotton across the brow, tucking the ends under. When dry, remove cotton and with comb (or brush) lift from underneath to fluff out bangs. With a comb or brush you can coax a curl or push in a wave exactly where you want it.

For a bubble-headed look, comb hair smooth, then spray. Turn two giant mesh rollers under on each side. At the top, turn a single roller away from your face and spray again. When dry, remove rollers. For the comb-out, lift top hair high and dry at the sides. If you want more of the Empire look, put a row of rollers across the top of your hair to the back and lift the hair higher toward the back when combing out after it's dry.

These are just a few of the many styling tricks to try. Hours later, if you want to refresh your style, just dampen your comb and run it through your hair. The waves and curls will bounce back into place.

For holiday glamor, top your hairdo with party decorations. Bobby pin or clip them to your hair. Use tiny tree ornaments, shiny bells or holly.

MONDAY: Be a Christmas Ornament.

Omicron Chapter, BSP To Operate Yule Booth

Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, is sponsoring the Christmas Decorations booth for its scholarship fund. Previous years the Beta Sigma Phi City Council has conducted the booth at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets, but discontinued it this year. So members of Omicron Chapter decided to conduct the booth for the benefit of the chapter scholarship fund. Any high school student in Allegany County is eligible for the scholarship.

The booth will be operated December 22 and 23 from 10 a. m., until 8 p. m. There will be mistletoe, two kinds of holly, the white and green; pine roping, Christmas centerpieces, pine wreaths, bunches of Oregon cedar, bunches of pine and crows foot.

Miss Deloris Chase is in charge of the booth. She is being assisted by Mrs. Betty Taylor and Miss Ellen Newnam, co-chairmen, and other members of the sorority.

The chapter Christmas party was held Tuesday evening in the form of a dinner at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Instead of the usual Christmas baskets, the money needed for them, and for jingle gifts was spent to purchase gifts for the patients at the County Home.

The invocation was offered by Miss LeAnnah Matthews and Mrs. Martha VanHorn extended the greetings. The program entitled, "Thoughts of Christmas," consisted of brief readings on Christmas by each member, including the origin of the carols, Yule log, manger, bells and Christmas tree. There also was group singing of carols and two pieces of poetry, "A Little Bit of Christmas," by Mrs. Emma Brugh; and "As Fine a Friend as You," by Mrs. LaVerne Hankins.

Santa distributed gifts and secret sisters were revealed. Miss Patricia Golden showed slides of her trip to northern Europe last summer.

The table decorations consisted of pine branches, pine cones, Christmas bells, red and green candles. The same motif was repeated in the programs, which were red and green bells sprinkled with silver glitter. Each received nativity scenes and novelty gifts as favors.

Attending were Mrs. Helen Arthur, Mrs. Alpha Barb, Miss Ruth Barry, Mrs. Faith Bradley, Miss Chase, Mrs. Mary Harrison, Mrs. Catherine Koon, Miss Helen Mae Kreiling, Mrs. Anna Kurtz, Mrs. Maxine Luck, Mrs. Sarah Mullaney, Miss Newnam, Mrs. Charlotte Northcraft, Mrs. Barbara Richardson, Miss Shirley Sandsbury, Mrs. Estaleen Shanholtz, Mrs. Eve Sliviak, Miss Margaret Smith, Mrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Virginia Newnam, social sponsor.

The next business session will be held January 6 at the home of Mrs. Emma Brugh, Ware's Avenue, LaVale.

Club Has Yule Party

Gold and white reindeer and sleigh filled with gold balls and white tapers with gold and white ceramic cherubs were combined with poinsettias and evergreens in the decorations of the Woman's Civic Club house for the annual Christmas luncheon Thursday, which was attended by 200 members. Mrs. Edward Dove presided and Mrs. John S. Cook gave the invocation. Christmas music was played by Mrs. Marvin Andrews. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Seth Harter.

The Allegany High Mixed Octet sang under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willison with Sandra Myers at the piano. It includes Carol Blackburn, Jane Geare, Willeta Mauk, Adela Roberts, Clyde Bantz, Fred Eichner, Kenneth Moreland and Bert Lazarus. Mrs. Harry Barton led the group singing. Mrs. C. A. List reported Mrs. William Kaldor was accepted as a member. The meeting closed with a candllight service and singing, "Silent Night."

Decorations were by the Art group. The American Home group was in charge of the luncheon, assisted by the Communications committee.

FSTC To Accept New Students In January

College Begins Holiday Recess

FROSTBURG — Dean Ivan C. Diehl of Frostburg State Teachers College has announced that the college will accept students for the second semester, which will officially begin on Thursday, January 29 at 8 a.m.

A first semester schedule of classes has been especially arranged for those students who contemplate entering college for the first time. Students in this category should request application forms from Miss Elisabeth Hitchins, registrar in charge of admissions, fill them in and return them to her not later than January 1. This is exceedingly important in view of the fact that several weeks are required to process an application.

Other students who may enter at midyear are former students who wish to return and resume work on either their Associate in Arts or Baccalaureate degrees. Such students will find no difficulty in selecting a program from the wide roster of courses offered.

Transferees from other colleges will also be accepted at this time. In the latter case, transcripts of work taken elsewhere must be in the office of the registrar in charge of admissions by January 1.

The timetable for registration follows: Seniors—Monday, January 26, 9 a.m. to noon. Juniors—Monday, January 26, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sophomores—Tuesday, January 27, 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Freshmen—Wednesday, January 28, 9 a.m. to noon and 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The college recessed yseterday at noon and will reopen Monday, January 5 at 8 a.m. All administrative offices will be officially closed during that period. Prospective students desiring information during the holiday season should contact President R. Bowen Hardesty at his home at 79 West Main Street, Frostburg or by phoning OV 9-6869.

Oldtown PTA Sees Pageant

OLDTOWN — At the Oldtown Parent Teacher's meeting Tuesday evening, a Christmas pageant was presented by the senior class and the senior high glee clubs, under the direction of Granville Cannon and Miss Carol Reith.

A different procedure of room visitation was used. Teachers explained how different subjects were taught in high school and in the elementary field. Phonovisual, reading, and report cards were explained. A question period followed for any phase of school work.

A business meeting was held in the auditorium with routine reports given. Mrs. Noah Carder reported on her trip to the PTA convention in Baltimore.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the ninth and tenth grade homeroom mothers.

Young Baptists To Sing Carols At Institutions

CRESAPTOWN — About 40 young people from Calvary Baptist Church of Cresaptown attended a Christmas party December 19 at the home of Miss Janet Armstrong and Miss Elaine Armstrong, Triple Lakes.

The theme of the party was "Christmas Boxes." A Spanish "pinata," in the form of a box, was broken; the games were all in boxes, and the refreshments were served in boxes.

Toys clothing and food were collected by the group for needy people of the area and plans were made for distribution.

On Wednesday, December 24 the group plans to go caroling at the County Home, the Infirmary, the jail and the hospitals, as well as shut-ins. The Youth Choir chosen from this group, is presenting special music during the holiday season for special programs conducted by the church.

Harold Cordts Awarded His Doctor Degree

Is Physical Ed Teacher At FSTC

FROSTBURG—Upon successfully completing an oral examination on his dissertation, "Status of the Required or Instructional Physical Education Program for Men and Women in the four-year Colleges and Universities of the United States," Harold Cordts of the Physical Education Department of Frostburg State Teachers College, received his Doctor of Education degree from Syracuse University December 1, 1958.

The dissertation is a national survey study upon which Dr. Cords will present on December 28-30 to the College Physical Education Association at the Hotel New Yorker, New York City. The CPEA is composed of college physical education male instructors interested in this problem which Dr. Cordts' study attempts to solve.

Dr. Cordts is presently involved in compiling a summary of his study to send to all persons who contributed information. His study is based upon principles set forth in the Washington conference of 1954, and is an effort to clarify current status for the committee on college physical education program which actively supported his work.

Begun in July, 1957, the dissertation was completed in August 1958. It consists of approximately 300 typewritten pages. After completing the dissertation, Dr. Cordts had to take his oral exam, which he did last Monday.

Dr. Cordts received his B. S. degree in 1952 from South Dakota State College, and his M. S. from the same institution in 1955.

Following graduation, he taught one year in elementary and junior high school of agriculture. While working on his M. S. degree and as a graduate assistant at South Dakota State College, he taught physical education to Freshmen and Sophomores and served in the athletic department as head trainer for football, basketball and track.

Following this position, he served in the Army two years. One of these years was spent teaching physical training and organizing and supervising recreational activities overseas.

Bids Reviewed For New Chapel Near Romney

Episcopal Center To Be Enlarged

ROMNEY — Ralph Saville Jr., local contractor submitted low bid for construction of two buildings at the Peterkin Conference Center near here.

William A. Powers, Romney, vice chairman, of the center's committee, said today a chapel and a lodge will be built at a cost of $36,000.

Five other contractors submitted bids for the work at the property owned by the Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia and used as a meeting center during the summer months.

Powers said an improvement and building program has been underway for some time to make the center into a year-around operation.

The latest contract calls for the construction of a chapel of traditional architecture. The 32-foot 60-foot frame structure will have an exterior of vertical redwood siding.

The chapel will be built in an H-shape. The center room will be assembly and recreational purposes and the four wings off it will be sleeping units.

Each unit will have quarters for six persons. Bath and toilet facilities will also be provided in each of the four wings.

The chapel will have an oil heating system, while the lodge will have a large fireplace and a ducting system off it into the four sleeping units.

The center's main building is the large frame structure formerly called the Hampshire Club which was comprised of a group of Wheeling men.

Located four miles south of Romney on a 1,000-acre tract along the South Branch of the Potomac River, the center also has a large dining hall and two lodges.

Powers said the center's committee plans to construct at least two more lodges.

College Begins Holiday Recess

FROSTBURG — Dean Ivan C. Diehl of Frostburg State Teachers College has announced that the college will accept students for the second semester, which will officially begin on Thursday, January 29 at 8 a.m.

A first semester schedule of classes has been especially arranged for those students who contemplate entering college for the first time. Students in this category should request application forms from Miss Elisabeth Hitchins, registrar in charge of admissions, fill them in and return them to her not later than January 1. This is exceedingly important in view of the fact that several weeks are required to process an application.

Other students who may enter at midyear are former students who wish to return and resume work on either their Associate in Arts or Baccalaureate degrees. Such students will find no difficulty in selecting a program from the wide roster of courses offered.

Transferees from other colleges will also be accepted at this time. In the latter case, transcripts of work taken elsewhere must be in the office of the registrar in charge of admissions by January 1.

The timetable for registration follows: Seniors—Monday, January 26, 9 a.m. to noon. Juniors—Monday, January 26, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sophomores—Tuesday, January 27, 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Freshmen—Wednesday, January 28, 9 a.m. to noon and 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The college recessed yseterday at noon and will reopen Monday, January 5 at 8 a.m. All administrative offices will be officially closed during that period. Prospective students desiring information during the holiday season should contact President R. Bowen Hardesty at his home at 79 West Main Street, Frostburg or by phoning OV 9-6869.

Harold Cordts Awarded His Doctor Degree

Is Physical Ed Teacher At FSTC

FROSTBURG—Upon successfully completing an oral examination on his dissertation, "Status of the Required or Instructional Physical Education Program for Men and Women in the four-year Colleges and Universities of the United States," Harold Cordts of the Physical Education Department of Frostburg State Teachers College, received his Doctor of Education degree from Syracuse University December 1, 1958.

The dissertation is a national survey study upon which Dr. Cords will present on December 28-30 to the College Physical Education Association at the Hotel New Yorker, New York City. The CPEA is composed of college physical education male instructors interested in this problem which Dr. Cordts' study attempts to solve.

Dr. Cordts is presently involved in compiling a summary of his study to send to all persons who contributed information. His study is based upon principles set forth in the Washington conference of 1954, and is an effort to clarify current status for the committee on college physical education program which actively supported his work.

Begun in July, 1957, the dissertation was completed in August 1958. It consists of approximately 300 typewritten pages. After completing the dissertation, Dr. Cordts had to take his oral exam, which he did last Monday.

Dr. Cordts received his B. S. degree in 1952 from South Dakota State College, and his M. S. from the same institution in 1955.

Following graduation, he taught one year in elementary and junior high school of agriculture. While working on his M. S. degree and as a graduate assistant at South Dakota State College, he taught physical education to Freshmen and Sophomores and served in the athletic department as head trainer for football, basketball and track.

Following this position, he served in the Army two years. One of these years was spent teaching physical training and organizing and supervising recreational activities overseas.

The three years prior to coming to State Teachers College, Dr. Cordts spent at Syracuse University as an assistant instructor. He taught methods of teaching physical education to junior and senior physical education majors and supervised student teachers in that area.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses

The Sandman Came First

She thought she'd wait up for Santa. The sandman came first.

But she'll have no regrets when she wakes up tomorrow. Christmas is so wonderful, it doesn't really matter whether you heard the reindeer's hoofs on the roof or saw the jolly old elf open his pack.

Like the heart of Christmas, it's not important that we weren't at Bethlehem . . . we didn't see the star . . . we didn't kneel at the manger. We can even erase the years when Christmas has found us tangled in tinsel and asleep to God.

For Christ is born! The hopes and fears of all the years have melted into one eternal Truth.

A gift is ours when we awake to discover it, reach for it, cling to it.

The Christ men worship in their churches and homes is God's gift to you and me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Sandman Came First

She thought she'd wait up for Santa. The sandman came first. But she'll have no regrets when she wakes up tomorrow. Christmas is so wonderful, it doesn't really matter whether you heard the reindeer's hoofs on the roof or saw the jolly old elf open his pack.

Like the heart of Christmas, it's not important that we weren't at Bethlehem . . . we didn't see the star . . . we didn't kneel at the manger. We can even erase the years when Christmas has found us tangled in tinsel and asleep to God.

For Christ is born! The hopes and fears of all the years have melted into one eternal Truth.

A gift is ours when we awake to discover it, reach for it, cling to it.

The Christ men worship in their churches and homes is God's gift to you and me.

Harvard Starts Accident Probe

Harvard University is engaged in the most all-inclusive study of highway accidents undertaken thus far in the spreading campaign to curtail the terrible annual carnage. Sparked by a grant of $809,000 from the National Institutes of health, a 14-member team of highly specialized professional men will begin the most exhaustive studies of traffic accidents to determine what happens to a human being just before an accident.

Described as a cradle-to-grave study of fatal accidents, the research group will endeavor to trace a faulty driver back to infancy if necessary to determine what caused him to act the way he did. When its five year study is completed, the group hopes to have a blueprint of emotional and personality deficiencies prevalent in accident-involved drivers.

Police powers over reluctant witnesses, a two-way radio hookup and complete co-operation by police and hospital personnel will enable the investigators to delve deeper into the causes of accidents than any preceding investigation. Concentrating on the Boston-Cambridge, Mass., metropolitan area, the research team will send a four-man investigative squad to the scene, upon the report of an accident.

An intensive 24-hour period of research will follow, during which witnesses will be questioned, autopsies performed and any emotional attachment to the accident examined. Following this, there will be a more prolonged study into the backgrounds of those involved.

Harvard thus has joined its sister universities, Cornell, Northwestern and Columbia—all of which have made studies of various phases of the subject—in a comprehensive effort to end this national disgrace.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Airlift Won't Work

PARIS

An airlift, the expensive but relatively easy way out that saved Berlin last time, will almost surely not defeat a renewed Berlin blockade.

That single fact means that the real, the crucial, the truly serious decision about Berlin was not taken by the grand rally of Foreign Ministers of the Western allies here in Paris. It means that their "firm" statements about their "decision" to defend Berlin were, in reality, no more than indications of a tendency to take the right decision later on. Nikita Khrushchev will surely notice this important distinction, even if nobody else does.

The stark fact that there is no easy way out of the Berlin crisis is what distinguishes this round in the cold war from all its predecessors, except Korea and Quemoy. Even Quemoy, even Korea did not demand the kind of ultimate and painful test of will that the Berlin crisis seems likely to demand. Radar jamming is the development that blocks the escape-by-airlift from the Berlin impasse. In 1948 the Soviet electronic industry had not yet reached the stage of producing effective radar jamming devices. Night and bad weather landings by the planes flying the airlift were therefore entirely possible. By using the ground control approach system, cargoes continued to be landed in Berlin every three or four minutes, even when ceiling and visibility were both close to zero.

In the last ten years, however, the Soviet electronic industry has entirely caught up with the comparable Western industry, at any rate in all military requirements. Some time ago, powerful Soviet radar jamming mechanisms were installed at four sites surrounding Berlin. The intention is obvious. Even if the Soviet's East German puppets do not carry out their blustering promises to send up fighters against Western aircraft flying to Berlin, the landings will be radar-jammed. There is no way to stop or overcome the jamming, either, except with well-placed A-bombs.

If an airlift is jammed, it cannot really sustain Berlin, unless very important new technological breakthroughs of a quite unforeseen character are achieved in the interim. The city has only three airports, Tempelhof, Gatow and Tegel. Space is so limited that even these three airports cannot be used to the uttermost, because of the congestion of flight paths. Even in summer, Berlin weather is bad. In winter, the city, being far to the North, has only a few hours of daylight each day. For these reasons an airlift depending on landing cargoes only in daylight and good weather cannot do the job. And this is true despite the fact that our new transport aircraft are very much larger than the C-54s which were the work horses of the old airlift.

Berlin has huge stocks—a year's supply of coal and six months' or more of other essential categories. A daytime, fair-weather airlift can indeed extend the period before Berlin's stocks will be finally exhausted. But fifteen months from the beginning of a strict siege is the current maximum estimate of the period during which Berlin can be sustained by airlift if the landings are jammed.

All this is so horribly important ("horribly" is the right word), precisely because by no means all the Western allies have faced the hard facts of Berlin's changed situation. After talking airlift in a way that must have vastly encouraged Khrushchev and company, the American policy-makers have now begun to admit that it will be fatal to surrender any of Berlin's supply routes, on the ground or in the air. They are in fact talking about armed convoys.

Yet the British are talking airlift to this day. If he obvious objections are mentioned, the British answer comes straight from Mister Micawber. It is said that something will turn up in the technological domain or something will turn up in negotiations with he Soviets, and so Berlin may still be saved before he fifteen months come to an end and Berlin is starved nto subjection.

The truth is, however, that if the Western allies go on talking airlift, Khrushchev will press on with his blockade scheme; and if the Western allies then take refuge in an airlift, Khrushchev will fold his hands across his belly and smilingly wait for his eventual victory. He knows the operational factors as well as anyone. He will conclude, with reason, that the Western allies will not make an H-bomb war when their airlift fails, after they themselves have failed the great initial test of will at the beginning of the blockade.

Once the easy way out is seen to be no way at all, and the above-stated principles are also accepted, realistic discussion can begin about details of tactics, both political and military. Tactics matter very much ess than the essential decision to meet the first challenge at Berlin without shiftiness, without self-delusion, without the smallest retreat. The Paris meeting just concluded at least gives grounds for hope that this essential decision will be taken in due course, even if it has not been taken here. One can only wait and pray.

One Guest Delays Wealthy Folks, Justices At White House Dinner

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Limousines drove slowly up to the east wing of the White House. A liveried doorman helped out ladies in evening gowns and men in white ties and tails. They filed into the lower White House where naval and military aides with gold braid on their shoulders carefully lined them up in the order they would proceed in to dinner.

It was the first of the official White House dinners, most select of the Washington social season, especially select this year because they have been cut down to five. This was the dinner for the Supreme Court.

Justice Hugo Black, oldest member of the court in point of service, arrived promptly, a few minutes before eight with Mrs. Black and was told by an aide where to stand. Other justices, William O. Douglas Tom Clark, John Harlan, William J. Brennan, Charles Whittaker, Potter Stewart, arrived with their wives, promptly. So did the three retired justices of the court and the other guests—78 in all. All stood in the main ballroom waiting the entry of their hosts.

But their hosts did not appear.

Minutes ticked by. Five minutes is considered a polite time for the delay of an official White House dinner, or at the most ten. Guests arrive ahead of time. They do not keep the President waiting, and he does not keep his guests waiting.

Pierre S. du Pont III, scion of the great chemical company, stood patiently. Not far away stood the Supreme Court Justice, William J. Brennan, who had written the devastating opinion forcing du Pont to divorce itself from General Motors. Nearby was Justice Tom Clark who first filed the suit against du Pont. Some guests wondered why Mr. du Pont was invited to the Supreme Court dinner. But he and his family had contributed $248,423 to re-elect Ike in 1956, and he stood patiently in line waiting to greet the man he put in the White House.

Wealth Vs. The Law

Richard Mellon of Pittsburgh, who with his family dominates the Aluminum Corporation, the Mellon banks, and the Gulf Oil Company, also stood patiently. Justice Black of the Supreme Court had attacked his companies when in the Senate and the court had consistently handed down rulings in opposition to the Mellons' economic philosophy.

Mr. Mellon personally gave $33,000 to elect Ike in 1956 and with his family gave $100,150. He stood in line with the Supreme Court.

Not far away stood Winthrop Aldrich, former Ambassador to Great Britain, former head of the Chase Bank and uncle of Gov.-elect Nelson Rockefeller. He had tapped his friends for $2,000,000 for the Republicans in 1948, raised almost as much in 1952. He too differed with the Supreme Court's economic rulings, but he stood in line waiting to honor the court at dinner.

Nearby was John M. Olin, head of the Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation, which gets an average of half a billion dollars annually in defense contracts from the Eisenhower administration; also Spencer T. Olin, chairman of the GOP Finance Committee. Their family gave $53,550 to re-elect Ike at the last election and they too stood in line to honor the Supreme Court which has ruled consistently against their companies' economic philosophies.

Patient also was George D. Widener, the portrait collector and race-horse owner He gave $24,200 to re-elect Ike and came to pay homage to the Supreme Court. There were also Harvey Firestone of the automobile tire family whose company has faced an anti-trust suit, and Elizabeth Arden, who entertained Mamie at her Maine Chance reducing ranch in Arizona; and the Howard Simpsons—he's president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; and the Harold Tinneys who own one of the ritziest places in Newport. They all waited. The Eisenhowers didn't appear.

Speculation arose that perhaps Ike wanted the first families of upper-bracket America to get better acquainted with the Supreme Court justices who had ruled against upper-bracket America. Finally at 8:30, an unprecedented half hour late, the President and First Lady appeared.

The Culprit

Howard Young, a house guest, had arrived late. "It was terrible," he confided. "I couldn't get into my evening clothes. They had to send two men to help me."

Mr. Young, an art collector who had entertained the President at his Wisconsin camp, had kept the big $100,000 contributors waiting 30 minutes. Mr. Young himself gave Ike only $500.

Dinner began. Suddenly two ladies became ill. Mrs. Simpson suffered a mild heart attack and her B&O husband escorted her from the table. Mrs. Harold Tinney suffered a stomach upset and left the table with her husband.

Washington hostesses consider it bad luck to have vacant places at a formal dinner. But the guests pretended not to notice.

Downstairs, however, a new batch of guests began arriving. They were invited for 10 p. m., and when you get invited to the White House you arrive on time. They did. But they too waited. They waited not half an hour but an entire hour.

These guests included members of the Court of Appeals, the Justice Department, the cream of the Washington judiciary—150 of them. But they waited. By the time they got upstairs they were furious.

At 10:50 they were finally permitted upstairs for the musicale. Shortly thereafter the President said he had to go downstairs to see that the Army chorus got champagne and cookies. He then slipped off to bed.

Are Christmas Celebrations In School Illegal?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Are the public-school authorities throughout the United States violating the "law of the land" by permitting Christmas celebrations during school hours?

Nine of the highest national organizations of the Jewish church have just issued a statement declaring that observance of religious festivals of any kind in the public schools violates "the traditional American principle of separation of church and state."

But what is the "law of the land," and does the Constitution really forbid all religious teaching in the public schools? The Supreme Court of the United States took it upon itself in 1948 to say that religious instruction during school hours, with each religion being given equal opportunity to hold its own services in separate sections of the same school buildings, is a violation of the Constitution.

Then the Supreme Court reversed itself in part in 1952 and said it is constitutional to release the children to go to religious classes during school hours provided these are carried on in other than public-school buildings. Under this formula those children who do not want any religious instruction are required to remain in the classrooms. This has been severely critized as unequal, but it is nevertheless the latest court ruling on the subject.

In New York City, moreover, attempts have been made to introduce into the public schools a joint celebration of Christmas and the Jewish "Festival of Lights," known as "Chanukah," as well as a combined observance of Easter and Passover. But the statement just issued by the Jewish national organizations deplores any such co-operative services as also a violation of "The conscience of many religious persons, Jews and Christians alike." The statement recommends that students be permitted to refrain from any participation in religious holiday observances if they so desire.

This brings into the news a topic that has many other controversial aspects as well. The Constitution has only one sentence on the subject. It says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

When the Supreme Court forbade the use of public - school buildings during school hours to permit religious instruction by teachers of different faiths to their own groups, was this a prohibition of the "free exercise" of religion?

Father Virgil C. Blum, professor of political science at Marquette University, is the author of a book, just out, entitled "Freedom Of Choice In Education." He has long advocated a certificate and tax-credit plan whereby parents would be given some form of subsidy out of local taxes to enable them to send their children to whatever schools they wish, so as to get whatever religious instruction they prefer. He declares in his book that "The rights of parents who believe in the Christian or Jewish religion and think that it should be taught to their children in school are as fundamental as any other constitutional rights." He adds:

"Parents who demand for their children an education from which all mention of God has been dehydrated are within their rights under the Constitution. But, when government demands that all children conform to this established secular religion of the public schools as a condition for sharing in educational benefits, the children's religious liberty is seriously abridged. This alternative of the dilemma is totally unacceptable to parents of every religious belief who desire a God-centered education for their children."

The topic has a new significance nowadays, since the Supreme Court has become the "supreme school board" of the nation and decides cases on sociological and psychological factors as they relate to the education of the child in the public schools. But if the people are to make sure that the problem will be handled as they wish, they will have to seek a constitutional amendment. This would insure them, for example, refunds in taxes or tax credits so they could send their children to private schools that teach religion or to public schools where "released time" during school hours would be granted to children of particular faiths, who would be taught in public-school buildings by their own religious instructors.

It will be noted that the New York City Board of Education, in its six-point program to combat crime in the schools, says that, in the community's efforts to solve the problem of juvenile delinquency, "There is no substitute for the principles of religion and morality."

'The Bucaneer'

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK — Cecil B. DeMille, 77 years young, is in town with his new film, "The Buccaneer," the 71st film of his momentous life in that industry.

The swashbuckler pits Charlton Heston, as Gen. Andrew Jackson, against a fur-bearing Yul Brynner, as Jean Lafitte. In there also are Charles Boyer, Claire Bloom, Inger Stevens, and costly and colossal reproductions of the Battle of New Orleans.

He likes this one, and the Paramount publicity men hovering in the next room of DeMille's plaza hotel suite would have wished the titan talked more about it to the attentive and admiring reporter. But DeMille is not a man whose mind is lazy enough to stay very long on one topic. He has a voracious interest in all things that are a part of this world, and all things that are not.

"I got fired by Paramount the first time I made 'The Ten Commandments,' the keen-eyed veteran said, pacing the floor and rattling the silver coins in his pocket. "The next time I made it, well, that was a little different. The picture has now grossed $56,000,000 and it has played hardly a fifth of the available theaters. It will do better than $100,000,000."

It sounded to the reporter like a bold assertion that movies are better, or at least bigger, than ever.

"Of course they're bigger," he said. "Take that box in the corner there, (ed. note: he pointed to a nice TV set.) Where would that business be without the films? You hear a lot about pay-TV getting a film company off-the-nut with a single showing of a new film. Bunk. A big film could never be shown on present-day sets.

"Could you imagine The Exodus sequence from The Ten Commandments on THAT screen?" He had made his point with great emphasis, but plainly he doesn't underestimate the guile of the toll-TV people.

"Of course," DeMille added, "they'll probably provide big screens for their clients one of these days. . ."

There was a book spread on his coffee table, portions of the opened pages marked with red ink.

Cecil DeMille, actor, author, enterpreneur, with a career that reaches back in the theater to the American Academy of Dramatic Art, circa 1900, had interrupted his work for this interview. His work on his next picture, that is. It will be the story of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the boy scouts.

"A man yawned when I told him that in Atlanta the other night," DeMille said levelly. "Yawned! So I drew him a few word pictures of Britain's wars in the Sudan and in South Africa, and of the defender of Maleking for seven terrible months at the turn of the century, and how the terrible fact dawned on him, as he lay in a pit, that a greater and ghastlier war would follow, and that the boys who would be called upon to fight it must be prepared to face their ordeal.

"What's the first thing a tyrant or a dictator destroys or disbands when he takes power? The Boy Scouts. . .all youth movements. Well, by God, the man didn't yawn after that!"

"What's the picture beyond that one?" we asked.

"I call it project X" De Mille said.

DeMille, who is a keen student of history, believes that a warning of Napoleon, to the effect that the world had better let China sleep, is taking terrible shape and substance. He agrees with his friends Churchill, MacArthur and Adenauer that China may represent more of a menace to free men and institutions than the Soviet Union. He has seen more of the U.S.S.R. than most men, by the way.

"Walked 1,200 miles down the Volga back in 1933," he recalled. "Mrs. DeMille went by boat. I like to walk and meet people. I found the Russian people fine people, provided I could talk to them in the middle of a wheat field."

Good Saturday Chore: Eliminating Booby Traps

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is natural to live with the delusion "It won't happen to me." This type of thinking permits the existence of many booby traps in the home and is responsible for thousands of accidental deaths, especially from poisoning.

Plan today to go through the house and eliminate potential troublemakers. Empty the medicine cabinet of all old and partially consumed medicines. Legitimate prescriptions are a common source of poisoning because most persons hoard unused tablets and capsules for months or longer—just in case they should develop the same disease again.

Meanwhile, the ingredients deteriorate or the labels fall off or become illegible. Strange things happen. A 2 year old was poisoned by a mixture of medicine administered by his 7 and 8 year old sisters. The medicine chest had fallen down and the parents left it on the floor.

Discard all unlabeled containers or replace the labels of all boxes, bottles, and tins regardless of contents. Keep poisonous substances in a locked cabinet. Never store on shelves with food such substances as insecticides or preparations containing cresol. It is surprising how many persons rely on their memory or sense of smell to tell whether an unlabeled soft drink bottle contains kerosene, turpentine, benzene, or carbon tetrachloride.

Not long ago a family was wiped out when insecticide powder was used to prepare pancakes. It was stored in the kitchen in an old flour container. In another mishap, the cook reached for an unlabeled flourlike substance in preparing chicken for frying. The "flour" turned out to be roach powder. Two children died. In another incident, gasoline stored in a vinegar bottle was poured on beets and eaten.

Another common booby trap is the heating system. A faulty furnace is a constant hazard, regardless of the type of fuel used, because of possible carbon monoxide poisoning. This condition is suspected whenever members of the household complain of headache during the colder months of the year. Every winter a story appears in a newspaper about the wiping out of an entire family by this type of poisoning. Be smart—don't become a statistic.

Harvard Starts Accident Probe

Harvard University is engaged in the most all-inclusive study of highway accidents undertaken thus far in the spreading campaign to curtail the terrible annual carnage. Sparked by a grant of $809,000 from the National Institutes of health, a 14-member team of highly specialized professional men will begin the most exhaustive studies of traffic accidents to determine what happens to a human being just before an accident.

Described as a cradle-to-grave study of fatal accidents, the research group will endeavor to trace a faulty driver back to infancy if necessary to determine what caused him to act the way he did. When its five year study is completed, the group hopes to have a blueprint of emotional and personality deficiencies prevalent in accident-involved drivers.

Police powers over reluctant witnesses, a two-way radio hookup and complete co-operation by police and hospital personnel will enable the investigators to delve deeper into the causes of accidents than any preceding investigation. Concentrating on the Boston-Cambridge, Mass., metropolitan area, the research team will send a four-man investigative squad to the scene, upon the report of an accident.

An intensive 24-hour period of research will follow, during which witnesses will be questioned, autopsies performed and any emotional attachment to the accident examined. Following this, there will be a more prolonged study into the backgrounds of those involved.

Harvard thus has joined its sister universities, Cornell, Northwestern and Columbia—all of which have made studies of various phases of the subject—in a comprehensive effort to end this national disgrace.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Airlift Won't Work

PARIS

An airlift, the expensive but relatively easy way out that saved Berlin last time, will almost surely not defeat a renewed Berlin blockade.

That single fact means that the real, the crucial, the truly serious decision about Berlin was not taken by the grand rally of Foreign Ministers of the Western allies here in Paris. It means that their "firm" statements about their "decision" to defend Berlin were, in reality, no more than indications of a tendency to take the right decision later on. Nikita Khrushchev will surely notice this important distinction, even if nobody else does.

The stark fact that there is no easy way out of the Berlin crisis is what distinguishes this round in the cold war from all its predecessors, except Korea and Quemoy. Even Quemoy, even Korea did not demand the kind of ultimate and painful test of will that the Berlin crisis seems likely to demand. Radar jamming is the development that blocks the escape-by-airlift from the Berlin impasse. In 1948 the Soviet electronic industry had not yet reached the stage of producing effective radar jamming devices. Night and bad weather landings by the planes flying the airlift were therefore entirely possible. By using the ground control approach system, cargoes continued to be landed in Berlin every three or four minutes, even when ceiling and visibility were both close to zero.

In the last ten years, however, the Soviet electronic industry has entirely caught up with the comparable Western industry, at any rate in all military requirements. Some time ago, powerful Soviet radar jamming mechanisms were installed at four sites surrounding Berlin. The intention is obvious. Even if the Soviet's East German puppets do not carry out their blustering promises to send up fighters against Western aircraft flying to Berlin, the landings will be radar-jammed. There is no way to stop or overcome the jamming, either, except with well-placed A-bombs.

If an airlift is jammed, it cannot really sustain Berlin, unless very important new technological breakthroughs of a quite unforeseen character are achieved in the interim. The city has only three airports, Tempelhof, Gatow and Tegel. Space is so limited that even these three airports cannot be used to the uttermost, because of the congestion of flight paths. Even in summer, Berlin weather is bad. In winter, the city, being far to the North, has only a few hours of daylight each day. For these reasons an airlift depending on landing cargoes only in daylight and good weather cannot do the job. And this is true despite the fact that our new transport aircraft are very much larger than the C-54s which were the work horses of the old airlift.

Berlin has huge stocks—a year's supply of coal and six months' or more of other essential categories. A daytime, fair-weather airlift can indeed extend the period before Berlin's stocks will be finally exhausted. But fifteen months from the beginning of a strict siege is the current maximum estimate of the period during which Berlin can be sustained by airlift if the landings are jammed.

He knows the operational factors as well as anyone. He will conclude, with reason, that the Western allies will not make an H-bomb war when their airlift fails, after they themselves have failed the great initial test of will at the beginning of the blockade.

Once the easy way out is seen to be no way at all, and the above-stated principles are also accepted, realistic discussion can begin about details of tactics, both political and military. Tactics matter very much less than the essential decision to meet the first challenge at Berlin without shiftiness, without self-delusion, without the smallest retreat. The Paris meeting just concluded at least gives grounds for hope that this essential decision will be taken in due course, even if it has not been taken here. One can only wait and pray.

Dinner began. Suddenly two ladies became ill. Mrs. Simpson suffered a mild heart attack and her B&O husband escorted her from the table. Mrs. Harold Tinney suffered a stomach upset and left the table with her husband.

Washington hostesses consider it bad luck to have vacant places at a formal dinner. But the guests pretended not to notice.

Downstairs, however, a new batch of guests began arriving. They were invited for 10 p. m., and when you get invited to the White House you arrive on time. They did. But they too waited. They waited not half an hour but an entire hour.

These guests included members of the Court of Appeals, the Justice Department, the cream of the Washington judiciary—150 of them. But they waited. By the time they got upstairs they were furious.

At 10:50 they were finally permitted upstairs for the musicale. Shortly thereafter the President said he had to go downstairs to see that the Army chorus got champagne and cookies. He then slipped off to bed.

Are Christmas Celebrations In School Illegal?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Are the public-school authorities throughout the United States violating the "law of the land" by permitting Christmas celebrations during school hours?

Nine of the highest national organizations of the Jewish church have just issued a statement declaring that observance of religious festivals of any kind in the public schools violates "the traditional American principle of separation of church and state."

But what is the "law of the land," and does the Constitution really forbid all religious teaching in the public schools? The Supreme Court of the United States took it upon itself in 1948 to say that religious instruction during school hours, with each religion being given equal opportunity to hold its own services in separate sections of the same school buildings, is a violation of the Constitution.

Then the Supreme Court reversed itself in part in 1952 and said it is constitutional to release the children to go to religious classes during school hours provided these are carried on in other than public-school buildings. Under this formula those children who do not want any religious instruction are required to remain in the classrooms. This has been severely critized as unequal, but it is nevertheless the latest court ruling on the subject.

In New York City, moreover, attempts have been made to introduce into the public schools a joint celebration of Christmas and the Jewish "Festival of Lights," known as "Chanukah," as well as a combined observance of Easter and Passover. But the statement just issued by the Jewish national organizations deplores any such co-operative services as also a violation of "The conscience of many religious persons, Jews and Christians alike." The statement recommends that students be permitted to refrain from any participation in religious holiday observances if they so desire.

This brings into the news a topic that has many other controversial aspects as well. The Constitution has only one sentence on the subject. It says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

When the Supreme Court forbade the use of public - school buildings during school hours to permit religious instruction by teachers of different faiths to their own groups, was this a prohibition of the "free exercise" of religion?

Father Virgil C. Blum, professor of political science at Marquette University, is the author of a book, just out, entitled "Freedom Of Choice In Education." He has long advocated a certificate and tax-credit plan whereby parents would be given some form of subsidy out of local taxes to enable them to send their children to whatever schools they wish, so as to get whatever religious instruction they prefer. He declares in his book that "The rights of parents who believe in the Christian or Jewish religion and think that it should be taught to their children in school are as fundamental as any other constitutional rights." He adds:

"Parents who demand for their children an education from which all mention of God has been dehydrated are within their rights under the Constitution. But, when government demands that all children conform to this established secular religion of the public schools as a condition for sharing in educational benefits, the children's religious liberty is seriously abridged. This alternative of the dilemma is totally unacceptable to parents of every religious belief who desire a God-centered education for their children."

The topic has a new significance nowadays, since the Supreme Court has become the "supreme school board" of the nation and decides cases on sociological and psychological factors as they relate to the education of the child in the public schools. But if the people are to make sure that the problem will be handled as they wish, they will have to seek a constitutional amendment. This would insure them, for example, refunds in taxes or tax credits so they could send their children to private schools that teach religion or to public schools where "released time" during school hours would be granted to children of particular faiths, who would be taught in public-school buildings by their own religious instructors.

It will be noted that the New York City Board of Education, in its six-point program to combat crime in the schools, says that, in the community's efforts to solve the problem of juvenile delinquency, "There is no substitute for the principles of religion and morality."

Good Saturday Chore: Eliminating Booby Traps

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is natural to live with the delusion "It won't happen to me." This type of thinking permits the existence of many booby traps in the home and is responsible for thousands of accidental deaths, especially from poisoning.

Plan today to go through the house and eliminate potential troublemakers. Empty the medicine cabinet of all old and partially consumed medicines. Legitimate prescriptions are a common source of poisoning because most persons hoard unused tablets and capsules for months or longer—just in case they should develop the same disease again.

Meanwhile, the ingredients deteriorate or the labels fall off or become illegible. Strange things happen. A 2 year old was poisoned by a mixture of medicine administered by his 7 and 8 year old sisters. The medicine chest had fallen down and the parents left it on the floor.

Discard all unlabeled containers or replace the labels of all boxes, bottles, and tins regardless of contents. Keep poisonous substances in a locked cabinet. Never store on shelves with food such substances as insecticides or preparations containing cresol. It is surprising how many persons rely on their memory or sense of smell to tell whether an unlabeled soft drink bottle contains kerosene, turpentine, benzene, or carbon tetrachloride.

Not long ago a family was wiped out when insecticide powder was used to prepare pancakes. It was stored in the kitchen in a old flour container. In another mishap, the cook reached for an unlabeled flourlike substance in preparing chicken for frying. The "flour" turned out to be roach powder. Two children died. In another incident, gasoline stored in a vinegar bottle was poured on beets and eaten.

Another common booby trap is the heating system. A faulty furnace is a constant hazard, regardless of the type of fuel used, because of possible carbon monoxide poisoning. This condition is suspected whenever members of the household complain o headache during the colder months of the year. Every winter a story appears in a newspaper about the wiping out of an entire family by this type of poisoning. Be smart—don't become a statistic.

'The Bucaneer'

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK — Cecil B. DeMille, 77 years young, is in town with his new film, "The Buccaneer," the 71st film of his momentous life in that industry.

The swashbuckler pits Charlton Heston, as Gen. Andrew Jackson, against a fur-bearing Yul Brynner, as Jean Lafitte. In there also are Charles Boyer, Claire Bloom, Inger Stevens, and costly and colossal reproductions of the Battle of New Orleans.

He likes this one, and the Paramount publicity men hovering in the next room of DeMille's plaza hotel suite would have wished the titan talked more about it to the attentive and admiring reporter. But DeMille is not a man whose mind is lazy enough to stay very long on one topic. He has a voracious interest in all things that are a part of this world, and all things that are not.

"I got fired by Paramount the first time I made 'The Ten Commandments,' the keen-eyed veteran said, pacing the floor and rattling the silver coins in his pocket. "The next time I made it, well, that was a little different. The picture has now grossed $56,000,000 and it has played hardly a fifth of the available theaters. It will do better than $100,000,000."

It sounded to the reporter like a bold assertion that movies are better, or at least bigger, than ever.

"Of course they're bigger," he said. "Take that box in the corner there, (ed. note: he pointed to a nice TV set.) Where would that business be without the films? You hear a lot about pay-TV getting a film company off-the-nut with a single showing of a new film. Bunk. A big film could never be shown on present-day sets.

"Could you imagine The Exodus sequence from The Ten Commandments on THAT screen?" He had made his point with great emphasis, but plainly he doesn't underestimate the guile of the toll-TV people.

"Of course," DeMille added, "they'll probably provide big screens for their clients one of these days. . ."

There was a book spread on his coffee table, portions of the opened pages marked with red ink.

Cecil DeMille, actor, author, enterpreneur, with a career that reaches back in the theater to the American Academy of Dramatic Art, circa 1900, had interrupted his work for this interview. His work on his next picture, that is. It will be the story of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the boy scouts.

"A man yawned when I told him that in Atlanta the other night," DeMille said levelly. "Yawned! So I drew him a few word pictures of Britain's wars in the Sudan and in South Africa, and of the defender of Maleking for seven terrible months at the turn of the century, and how the terrible fact dawned on him, as he lay in a pit, that a greater and ghastlier war would follow, and that the boys who would be called upon to fight it must be prepared to face their ordeal.

"What's the first thing a tyrant or a dictator destroys or disbands when he takes power? The Boy Scouts. . .all youth movements. Well, by God, the man didn't yawn after that!"

"What's the picture beyond that one?" we asked.

"I call it project X" De Mille said.

DeMille, who is a keen student of history, believes that a warning of Napoleon, to the effect that the world had better let China sleep, is taking terrible shape and substance. He agrees with his friends Churchill, MacArthur and Adenauer that China may represent more of a menace to free men and institutions than the Soviet Union. He has seen more of the U.S.S.R. than most men, by the way.

"Walked 1,200 miles down the Volga back in 1933," he recalled. "Mrs. DeMille went by boat. I like to walk and meet people. I found the Russian people fine people, provided I could [illegible] to them in the middle of a wheat field."

Valdes Stops McMurtry In First Round

Valdes weighed 213, McMurtry 188 pounds.

Valdes dropped McMurtry with a left hook to the head near the midway mark of the opening round and floored him again with a right hand, following two hooks. As Nino swarmed over his man, McMurtry dropped to one knee, bounced up and reeled against the ropes as Referee Harry Kessler stopped it.

It was the first time the 26-year-old McMurtry had been stopped in 34 pro fights.

Using his 25-pound weight advantage and superior reach and height, Valdes controlled the action all the way. He chased McMurtry from the opening bell, digging a left to the body. When Pat bounced back with a jab, Nino moved in to drop him with a short left hook.

Bewildered Pat got up quickly at two but was forced to take the automatic eight-count by Referee Kessler. Valdes rammed two hooks to the body and head and then drove home a right to the chin that floored Pat for the second time. He took the count on one knee, finally getting up at nine.

As Valdes went after him again, McMurtry fell back near the ropes and dropped to one knee. As he got up, Valdes moved in and Pat reeled away. Referee Kessler quickly stopped it to save Pat from further punishment.

"He wasn't able to protect himself," said Kessler after the quick ending. Under New York rules, it is mandatory to stop a fight after three knockdowns in the same round.

Sentinels Top South, 46-44, In CVAL Game

Boor's Quint Hoops 20-29 Foul Tosses, Robinson Gets 29

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — Forward Charles Robinson scored 29 points here last night to lead the Fort Hill Sentinels to a 46-44 triumph over the South High Rebels in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League contest.

Robinson was the whole show for the touring Sentinels. The 5'11" senior forward tossed in nine field goals and was particularly effective at the foul line where he shoved through 11 penalty pitches in 12 tries. His missed attempt was the result of another Sentinel stepping across the zone line too quickly.

Fort Hill, which now possesses a C.V.A.L. record of two wins and a loss and an overall mark of 3-1, never trailed during the evening. The winners hurried out on top, 13-4, as the first quarter ended and enjoyed a 26-14 lead at halftime. South High, which is winless in two league outings and in five over-all frays, came within two points twice in the final half with Reggie Keyes and Jim Smith, who paced the losers with 22 and 20 points, leading the counter-attack.

The Rebels lost the game at the foul line with a sub-par 8-18 performance, compared to Fort Hill's respectable 20-29. South High outscored the visitors, 18 to 13, from the field. The box score:

Mike's Big Night

By C. V. BURNS

THE DEATH of W. Arnold "Doc" Gunther this week brought back memories of the days when the New York Original Celtics and the Cleveland Rosenblums, two of the great professional basketball teams of yesteryear, were entertained by "Doc" at his home after they had played the Cumberland Caseys here.

Joe Lapchick, John "Pete" Barry, Henry "Dutch" Dehnert, Davey Banks, Rich Deighan, Dave Kerr, Carl Husta and Nat Hickey, all big names in the pro sport in the 1920s and 1930s, were among "Doc's" guests during their visits to Cumberland and they all had a warm spot in their hearts for the man who headed the Knights of Columbus league and independent quints.

The Celtics, who first came into this section in 1923 to play "Spooks" Lytle's Keyser Collegians, probably did more to popularize the sport throughout the United States than any team of that era. A schoolboy team could learn more about the game by watching the Celtics play than through any other medium. They were to basketball what Bill Tilden was to tennis, Bobby Jones to golf, Gene Tunney to boxing and Ty Cobb to baseball.

"Doc" Gunther loved to entertain the professional prima donnas so he could have them fraternize with his own players and engage in a thorough discussion of the game. And they used to get into some lengthy arguments about the sport before the parties broke up in the wee small hours of the morning.

The state bacteriologist was a stickler for fundamentals and we still can see him diagramming plays and having the Celtics demonstrate them right in his living room. These Celtics, who had played all over the world, were real down-to-earth fellows and they got a bang out of those question and answer sessions.

When "Dutch" Dehnert, the inventor of the "pivot play," came here for a Dapper Dan Club dinner the first thing he mentioned to the writer was the fine receptions "Doc" Gunther put on for the Celtics whenever they visited Cumberland. The Celts and Rosies played the Caseys at least a half dozen times and most of the games attracted capacity crowds.

The Caseys started their 8-year career in 1926 in the City League and their slambang battles with the old Lafayette Club will never be forgotten by those who witnessed them.

Wonder how many fans recall the hard-fought contests with the Seneca Indians (they were real Indians), the Duquesne Lafayettes, city champs of Pittsburgh; Olson's Terrible Swedes, Olson's Original Nordics, Buffalo Lincolns, New York Nationals, Rochester Centrals, the Skinker Eagles of Washington; Detroit Clowns, the Gettysburg Fleetwings and the Dixie Champs, featuring "Bozie" Berger, University of Maryland's All-America player, who later played major league baseball?

There were quite a few players who got into the Caseys' lineup over the years but the stalwarts as we best remember them were Cletus "Vic" May, Bill Keegan, Joe Dorsey, Jack Stakem, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Joe Neubeiser, Frank McMullen, Johnny Mullaney, George Stegmaier, Francis Coyle, Johnny Long and last but not least, Leo "One Minute" Barley, who earned that tag because he always managed to come off the bench to see at least one minute of action. And we must not forget to mention Willie Hoban, who was the team's most faithful trainer.

"Doc" Gunther was a native of Baltimore but had resided here since 1915. He managed the City Hall team that won the championship of the City Twilight Baseball League and one of his Casey quints bagged the state title by whipping the Baltimore Voerwarts.

The many who knew "Doc" Gunther are saddened by the death of one of Cumberland's real gentlemen and beloved sports leaders at the age of 64. He was tops.

LAST SEASON when Mike Long was starring in the Catholic Youth Basketball League his pop—that's John J. Long, city commissioner—told us that he really had a problem on his hands.

The Longs live on Ridgewood avenue and that's near Fort Hill High School. John will be remembered as having played basketball at LaSalle and Allegany, coached football and basketball at LaSalle and also football at Fort Hill. That gave him the "triple crown."

"We don't know whether to send Michael to LaSalle or Fort Hill," John said, "but I suppose he'll have to decide for himself because maybe father doesn't know best in this situation."

The other night Mike stole some of his pop's thunder when he slammed in a field goal in the closing seconds of play to give LaSalle the decision over Beall in a thriller at Frostburg.

Fans began calling and wanted to know "Who is this guy Long that won tonight's game?" Mike had seen little action prior to Tuesday but George Geatz must have told him it was his night so the freshman "ace in the hole" went out and banged in a half dozen shots, won the game, and finished up with 13 points.

Mike could be a "chip off the old block" as his dad was one of Allegany's all-time greats and still holds a W.M.I. League record of 52 points in one game which he set on the old Greene street court almost 35 years ago.

Frostburg Eagles Win

The Frostburg Eagles won three games from the Frostburg American Legion in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. C. Hitchins led the winners with 30 points and Don Blank had 27 for the Legion.

Ernie Nelson tapped in the goal that knotted the score at 54-all thirty seconds before the regulation game ended.

Terry Colaw and Lee Martin with 16 and 15 points led Southern's scoring while Bill Taylor, Ernie Nelson, Billy Reynolds and Dan Koontz accounted for 48 Petersburg markers.

Valdes Stops McMurtry In First Round

Heavy From Coast Kayoed First Time

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Big Nino Valdes overwhelmed Pat McMurtry with a devastating attack to stop the Tacoma, Wash., boxer in 2:39 of the first round Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

Valdes weighed 213, McMurtry 188 pounds.

Valdes dropped McMurtry with a left hook to the head near the midway mark of the opening round and floored him again with a right hand, following two hooks. As Nino swarmed over his man, McMurtry dropped to one knee, bounced up and reeled against the ropes as Referee Harry Kessler stopped it.

It was the first time the 26-year-old McMurtry had been stopped in 34 pro fights.

Using his 25-pound weight advantage and superior reach and height, Valdes controlled the action all the way. He chased McMurtry from the opening bell, digging a left to the body. When Pat bounced back with a jab, Nino moved in to drop him with a short left hook.

Bewildered Pat got up quickly at two but was forced to take the automatic eight-count by Referee Kessler. Valdes rammed two hooks to the body and head and then drove home a right to the chin that floored Pat for the second time. He took the count on one knee, finally getting up at nine.

As Valdes went after him again, McMurtry fell back near the ropes and dropped to one knee. As he got up, Valdes moved in and Pat reeled away. Referee Kessler quickly stopped it to save Pat from further punishment.

"He wasn't able to protect himself," said Kessler after the quick ending. Under New York rules, it is mandatory to stop a fight after three knockdowns in the same round.

Sentinels Top South, 46-44, In CVAL Game

Boor's Quint Hoops 20-29 Foul Tosses, Robinson Gets 29

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — Forward Charles Robinson scored 29 points here last night to lead the Fort Hill Sentinels to a 46-44 triumph over the South High Rebels in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League contest.

Robinson was the whole show for the touring Sentinels. The 5'11" senior forward tossed in nine field goals and was particularly effective at the foul line where he shoved through 11 penalty pitches in 12 tries. His missed attempt was the result of another Sentinel stepping across the zone line too quickly.

Fort Hill, which now possesses a C.V.A.L. record of two wins and a loss and an overall mark of 3-1, never trailed during the evening. The winners hurried out on top, 13-4, as the first quarter ended and enjoyed a 26-14 lead at halftime. South High, which is winless in two league outings and in five over-all frays, came within two points twice in the final half with Reggie Keyes and Jim Smith, who paced the losers with 22 and 20 points, leading the counter-attack.

The Rebels lost the game at the foul line with a sub-par 8-18 performance, compared to Fort Hill's respectable 20-29. South High outscored the visitors, 18 to 13, from the field. The box score:

Like Dad, Like Son

By C. V. BURNS

THE DEATH of W. Arnold "Doc" Gunther this week brought back memories of the days when the New York Original Celtics and the Cleveland Rosenblums, two of the great professional basketball teams of yesteryear, were entertained by "Doc" at his home after they had played the Cumberland Caseys here.

Joe Lapchick, John "Pete" Barry, Henry "Dutch" Dehnert, Davey Banks, Rich Deighan, Dave Kerr, Carl Husta and Nat Hickey, all big names in the pro sport in the 1920s and 1930s, were among "Doc's" guests during their visits to Cumberland and they all had a warm spot in their hearts for the man who headed the Knights of Columbus league and independent quints.

The Celtics, who first came into this section in 1923 to play "Spooks" Lytle's Keyser Collegians, probably did more to popularize the sport throughout the United States than any team of that era. A schoolboy team could learn more about the game by watching the Celtics play than through any other medium. They were to basketball what Bill Tilden was to tennis, Bobby Jones to golf, Gene Tunney to boxing and Ty Cobb to baseball.

"Doc" Gunther loved to entertain the professional prima donnas so he could have them fraternize with his own players and engage in a thorough discussion of the game. And they used to get into some lengthy arguments about the sport before the parties broke up in the wee small hours of the morning.

The state bacteriologist was a stickler for fundamentals and we still can see him diagramming plays and having the Celtics demonstrate them right in his living room. These Celtics, who had played all over the world, were real down-to-earth fellows and they got a bang out of those question and answer sessions.

When "Dutch" Dehnert, the inventor of the "pivot play," came here for a Dapper Dan Club dinner the first thing he mentioned to the writer was the fine receptions "Doc" Gunther put on for the Celtics whenever they visited Cumberland. The Celts and Rosies played the Caseys at least a half dozen times and most of the games attracted capacity crowds.

The Caseys started their 8-year career in 1926 in the City League and their slambang battles with the old Lafayette Club will never be forgotten by those who witnessed them.

Wonder how many fans recall the hard-fought contests with the Seneca Indians (they were real Indians), the Duquesne Lafayettes, city champs of Pittsburgh; Olson's Terrible Swedes, Olson's Original Nordics, Buffalo Lincolns, New York Nationals, Rochester Centrals, the Skinker Eagles of Washington; Detroit Clowns, the Gettysburg Fleetwings and the Dixie Champs, featuring "Bozie" Berger, University of Maryland's All-America player, who later played major league baseball?

There were quite a few players who got into the Caseys' lineup over the years but the stalwarts as we best remember them were Cletus "Vic" May, Bill Keegan, Joe Dorsey, Jack Stakem, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Joe Neubeiser, Frank McMullen, Johnny Mullaney, George Stegmaier, Francis Coyle, Johnny Long and last but not least, Leo "One Minute" Barley, who earned that tag because he always managed to come off the bench to see at least one minute of action. And we must not forget to mention Willie Hoban, who was the team's most faithful trainer.

"Doc" Gunther was a native of Baltimore but had resided here since 1915. He managed the City Hall team that won the championship of the City Twilight Baseball League and one of his Casey quints bagged the state title by whipping the Baltimore Voerwarts.

The many who knew "Doc" Gunther are saddened by the death of one of Cumberland's real gentlemen and beloved sports leaders at the age of 64. He was tops.

LAST SEASON when Mike Long was starring in the Catholic Youth Basketball League his pop—that's John J. Long, city commissioner—told us that he really had a problem on his hands.

The Longs live on Ridgewood avenue and that's near Fort Hill High School. John will be remembered as having played basketball at LaSalle and Allegany, coached football and basketball at LaSalle and also football at Fort Hill. That gave him the "triple crown."

"We don't know whether to send Michael to LaSalle or Fort Hill," John said, "but I suppose he'll have to decide for himself because maybe father doesn't know best in this situation."

The other night Mike stole some of his pop's thunder when he slammed in a field goal in the closing seconds of play to give LaSalle the decision over Beall in a thriller at Frostburg.

Fans began calling and wanted to know "Who is this guy Long that won tonight's game?" Mike had seen little action prior to Tuesday but George Geatz must have told him it was his night so the freshman "ace in the hole" went out and banged in a half dozen shots, won the game, and finished up with 13 points.

Mike could be a "chip off the old block" as his dad was one of Allegany's all-time greats and still holds a W.M.I. League record of 52 points in one game which he set on the old Greene street court almost 35 years ago.

Frostburg Eagles Win

The Frostburg Eagles won three games from the Frostburg American Legion in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. C. Hitchins led the winners with 30 points and Don Blank had 27 for the Legion.

Giants Installed 6-5 Choice Over Cleveland Browns

NFL Eastern Winner Plays Colts Dec. 28

Sunday's Battle In New York May Attract 70,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—The heroically-inclined New York Giants were 6-5 favorites Friday to beat the Cleveland Browns Sunday for a Christmas jackpot that could hit $200,000.

These two teams clash in a "sudden-death" playoff for the Eastern Division championship of the National Football League before an expected crowd of 70,000 at Yankee Stadium and a national television audience CBS, game time 2 p.m. e.s.t.

The winner of the showdown earns the right to entertain the Baltimore Colts, champions of the Western Division, for the world professional football title the following Sunday.

With a sellout crowd in prospect for the championship game at either 80,000-seat Municipal Stadium in Cleveland or 72,000-capacity Yankee Stadium, the winning player pool could reach a record $200,000. That would make it about $5,000 for each member of the winning team and $3,000 for each loser.

For Sunday's windfall division playoff, the players will receive "game salary," which means approximately one-twelfth of their regular - season pay.

If the score is tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes of play, the teams will take a brief rest and then flip a coin to determine which will kick off for the "sudden death" overtime period. The first team which scores in overtime will be the winner. There never has been a "sudden-death" winner in the history of NFL playoff games.

Warming temperature in the high 30s began thawing out the frozen Yankee Stadium turf on Thursday, but there was no way of telling in what condition the field might be by game time.

On a frozen field amid a light snowfall last Sunday, the Browns scored only one touchdown and were beaten, 13-10, when New York's Pat Summerall kicked a 49 yard field goal with 2:07 left to play. That kick left both clubs with 9-3 records for the regular season and forced Sunday's playoff.

Because of the anticipated closeness of the game and the "sudden death" provision, Broadway oddsmakers were not quoting the usual pointspread "line." Instead, they made the Giants 5½-6½ favorites, meaning that a New York supporter would have to put up $6.50 to win $5, while a Cleveland backer would get $5.50 for a $5 bet.

No team ever has beaten the Browns three times in the same season. The Giants, who won 21-17 in Cleveland Nov. 2, have a chance to turn this trick. They have proved themselves an extremely game and resourceful team this season.

Paul Brown is a man of intense pride who hates especially to lose to the Giants and-or in New York.

Something has to yield on Sunday.

Olympia Blend Cops Tropical Park 7th

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19 (AP) — Olympia Blend came within one fifth of a second today of the Tropical Park record for 5½ furlongs as he won the featured seventh race in 1:02 4/5.

The Jay Davidson sprinter probably would have smashed Hoop Band's mark had Frank Smith been forced to push him in the final sixteenth.

Olympia Blend, an $8.60 favorite with the 6,407 bettors, defeated Ken McClain's Dixie Dudley by three lengths. Dixie Dudley was a length and three quarters ahead of Rita L. Costello's Greek King, who led Mrs. S. H. Sadacca's Early Warning by two and three quarter lengths.

Ashburn's .350 Noses Out Mays

NEW YORK (AP)—Richie Ashburn's last-day triumph over Willie Mays in the exciting race for the 1958 National League batting championship was made official Friday with the release of the official league statistics.

Ashburn, 31 - year - old Philadelphia outfielder, won the crown with a .350 average. Mays, the San Francisco star, finished second with .347.

Ashburn, the NL's batting king in 1955, with a .338 mark, went into his '58 finale with a .347 average and collected three hits in four tries. Mays had three safeties in five at bats and boosted his mark from .345.

Stan Musial, who sought his eighth title, wound up in third place with .337. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, with .326 and Bob Skinner of Pittsburgh, with .321, rounded out the top five.

The fleet Ashburn also collected the most hits, 215, the most triples, 13 and the most one-base hits, 176.

Assistants Resign

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Assistant coaches Breezy Reid, Nick Skorich and Jack Morton of the Green Bay Packers resigned Friday, erasing the last traces of Scotter McLean's National Football League regime.

The resignations were handed to Club President Dominic Olejniczak. McLean quit as head coach Wednesday after one disastrous season—the Packers' worst ever (1-10-1)—and promptly took a job as backfield coach of the Detroit Lions.

U.S. Netmen Need One Win To Reach Davis Cup Finals

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo, buoyed by opening singles victories, aimed for a doubles victory over Italy Sunday which would clinch the Davis Cup interzone final for the United States.

The Yanks faced the experienced Italian tandem of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, both determined to avenge Friday's defeats.

The Peruvian-born Olmedo rallied to down Pietrangeli, 5-7, 10-8, 6-0, 6-1, and then Richardson, exerting steady pressure, made it 2-0 by crushing Sirola, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

A victory Saturday or in one of the final two singles matches Sunday would assure the Americans another go at the Australians in the Challenge Round. That series is scheduled for Dec. 29-31 at Brisbane.

The doubles match was scheduled for 2 p.m. (1 a.m., EST) on the Royal Kings Park Court.

Colavito Grabs Slugging Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Rocky Colavito, Cleveland's 25 - year - old outfielder whose throwing arm is so strong he has toyed with the idea of pitching, won the American League slugging crown last season.

Colavito, who swings and throws righthanded, won the slugging title with a .620 average, according to official league statistics released Friday.

He finished far ahead of New York's Mickey Mantle and Kansas City's Bob Cerv who tied for second with .592 averages.

In addition to a .303 batting percentage, Colavito boomed 41 homers, 26 doubles, 3 triples and drove in 113 runs. His home total was one less than Mantle's. Colavito was second in runs batted in to Jackie Jensen of Boston who sent home 122.

Ted Williams, the 1957 slugging leader with a .731 mark, won the batting championship with a .328 average but finished fourth in slugging with .584.

Trailing Williams was Washington's Roy Sievers with .544 and Jensen, the league's most valuable player, with .535.

Honor Bobby Jones

MAMARONECK, N. Y. — In memory of his sensational U.S. Open victory there in 1929, and also because he is one of golf's most beloved champions, Winged Foot Golf Club long ago elected Bob Jones to honorary Life Membership. Bob expects to visit Winged Foot next June 11-13 when the Open will be played there again, 30 years after his famous triumph.

Dunn, Robinson Get New Posts With Orioles

Jack Will Direct Public Relations

BALTIMORE (AP) — Appointment of Jack Dunn as director of public relations and Eddie Robinson as field director of farm operations were announced Friday by the Baltimore Orioles in their reorganization.

The administrative changes began last month when Lee MacPhail came from the New York Yankees to become general manager. MacPhail took over from Paul Richards who also managed the Orioles on the field.

Dunn, whose grandfather acquired control of the minor league Orioles in 1910, had been assistant general manager and traveling secretary. He was working under a five-year contract as part of the payment for giving up the International League Orioles to make way for transfer of the American League franchise from St. Louis.

Dunn will trade titles with [illegible] Lancaster who will become traveling secretary. Lancaster will continue to assist in public relations as well as being traveling secretary.

Robinson became an Oriole coach in 1957 after a dozen years as a first baseman in the American League with all eight teams.

The first United States federal taxes to be introduced were import duties and an excise on distilled liquors.

Giants Installed 6-5 Choice Over Cleveland Browns

NFL Eastern Winner Plays Colts Dec. 28

Sunday's Battle In New York May Attract 70,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—The heroically-inclined New York Giants were 6-5 favorites Friday to beat the Cleveland Browns Sunday for a Christmas jackpot that could hit $200,000.

These two teams clash in a "sudden-death" playoff for the Eastern Division championship of the National Football League before an expected crowd of 70,000 at Yankee Stadium and a national television audience CBS, game time 2 p.m. e.s.t.

The winner of the showdown earns the right to entertain the Baltimore Colts, champions of the Western Division, for the world professional football title the following Sunday.

With a sellout crowd in prospect for the championship game at either 80,000-seat Municipal Stadium in Cleveland or 72,000-capacity Yankee Stadium, the winning player pool could reach a record $200,000. That would make it about $5,000 for each member of the winning team and $3,000 for each loser.

For Sunday's windfall division playoff, the players will receive "game salary," which means approximately one-twelfth of their regular - season pay.

If the score is tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes of play, the teams will take a brief rest and then flip a coin to determine which will kick off for the "sudden death" overtime period. The first team which scores in overtime will be the winner. There never has been a "sudden-death" winner in the history of NFL playoff games.

Warming temperature in the high 30s began thawing out the frozen Yankee Stadium turf on Thursday, but there was no way of telling in what condition the field might be by game time.

On a frozen field amid a light snowfall last Sunday, the Browns scored only one touchdown and were beaten, 13-10, when New York's Pat Summerall kicked a 49 yard field goal with 2:07 left to play. That kick left both clubs with 9-3 records for the regular season and forced Sunday's playoff.

Because of the anticipated closeness of the game and the "sudden death" provision, Broadway oddsmakers were not quoting the usual pointspread "line." Instead, they made the Giants 5½-6½ favorites, meaning that a New York supporter would have to put up $6.50 to win $5, while a Cleveland backer would get $5.50 for a $5 bet.

No team ever has beaten the Browns three times in the same season. The Giants, who won 21-17 in Cleveland Nov. 2, have a chance to turn this trick. They have proved themselves an extremely game and resourceful team this season.

Paul Brown is a man of intense pride who hates especially to lose to the Giants and-or in New York.

Something has to yield on Sunday.

Olympia Blend Cops Tropical Park 7th

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19 (AP) — Olympia Blend came within one fifth of a second today of the Tropical Park record for 5½ furlongs as he won the featured seventh race in 1:02 4/5.

The Jay Davidson sprinter probably would have smashed Hoop Band's mark had Frank Smith been forced to push him in the final sixteenth.

Olympia Blend, an $8.60 favorite with the 6,407 bettors, defeated Ken McClain's Dixie Dudley by three lengths. Dixie Dudley was a length and three quarters ahead of Rita L. Costello's Greek King, who led Mrs. S. H. Sadacca's Early Warning by two and three quarter lengths.

Ashburn's .350 Noses Out Mays

NEW YORK (AP)—Richie Ashburn's last-day triumph over Willie Mays in the exciting race for the 1958 National League batting championship was made official Friday with the release of the official league statistics.

Ashburn, 31 - year - old Philadelphia outfielder, won the crown with a .350 average. Mays, the San Francisco star, finished second with .347.

Ashburn, the NL's batting king in 1955, with a .338 mark, went into his '58 finale with a .347 average and collected three hits in four tries. Mays had three safeties in five at bats and boosted his mark from .345.

Stan Musial, who sought his eighth title, wound up in third place with .337. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, with .326 and Bob Skinner of Pittsburgh, with .321, rounded out the top five.

The fleet Ashburn also collected the most hits, 215, the most triples, 13 and the most one-base hits, 176.

Assistants Resign

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Assistant coaches Breezy Reid, Nick Skorich and Jack Morton of the Green Bay Packers resigned Friday, erasing the last traces of Scotter McLean's National Football League regime.

The resignations were handed to Club President Dominic Olejniczak. McLean quit as head coach Wednesday after one disastrous season—the Packers' worst ever (1-10-1)—and promptly took a job as backfield coach of the Detroit Lions.

U.S. Netmen Need One Win To Reach Davis Cup Finals

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo, buoyed by opening singles victories, aimed for a doubles victory over Italy Sunday which would clinch the Davis Cup interzone final for the United States.

The Yanks faced the experienced Italian tandem of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, both determined to avenge Friday's defeats.

The Peruvian-born Olmedo rallied to down Pietrangeli, 5-7, 10-8, 6-0, 6-1, and then Richardson, exerting steady pressure, made it 2-0 by crushing Sirola, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

A victory Saturday or in one of the final two singles matches Sunday would assure the Americans another go at the Australians in the Challenge Round. That series is scheduled for Dec. 29-31 at Brisbane.

The doubles match was scheduled for 2 p.m. (1 a.m., EST) on the Royal Kings Park Court.

Colavito Grabs Slugging Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Rocky Colavito, Cleveland's 25 - year - old outfielder whose throwing arm is so strong he has toyed with the idea of pitching, won the American League slugging crown last season.

Colavito, who swings and throws righthanded, won the slugging title with a .620 average, according to official league statistics released Friday.

He finished far ahead of New York's Mickey Mantle and Kansas City's Bob Cerv who tied for second with .592 averages.

In addition to a .303 batting percentage, Colavito boomed 41 homers, 26 doubles, 3 triples and drove in 113 runs. His home total was one less than Mantle's. Colavito was second in runs batted in to Jackie Jensen of Boston who sent home 122.

Ted Williams, the 1957 slugging leader with a .731 mark, won the batting championship with a .328 average but finished fourth in slugging with .584.

Trailing Williams was Washington's Roy Sievers with .544 and Jensen, the league's most valuable player, with .535.

Honor Bobby Jones

MAMARONECK, N. Y. — In memory of his sensational U.S. Open victory there in 1929, and also because he is one of golf's most beloved champions, Winged Foot Golf Club long ago elected Bob Jones to honorary Life Membership. Bob expects to visit Winged Foot next June 11-13 when the Open will be played there again, 30 years after his famous triumph.

Dunn, Robinson Get New Posts With Orioles

Jack Will Direct Public Relations

BALTIMORE (AP) — Appointment of Jack Dunn as director of public relations and Eddie Robinson as field director of farm operations were announced Friday by the Baltimore Orioles in their reorganization.

The administrative changes began last month when Lee MacPhail came from the New York Yankees to become general manager. MacPhail took over from Paul Richards who also managed the Orioles on the field.

Dunn, whose grandfather acquired control of the minor league Orioles in 1910, had been assistant general manager and traveling secretary. He was working under a five-year contract as part of the payment for giving up the International League Orioles to make way for transfer of the American League franchise from St. Louis.

Dunn will trade titles with Jon Lancaster who will become traveling secretary. Lancaster will continue to assist in public relations as well as being traveling secretary.

Robinson became an Oriole coach in 1957 after a dozen years as a first baseman in the American League with all eight teams.

The first United States federal taxes to be introduced were import duties and an excise on distilled liquors.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — All the fighting and disputing is over and Otto Preminger comes up the winner in the hassle over which Hollywood producer will bring "anatomy of murder" to the screen. It was a prize worth battling for as Robert Traver's exciting novel has been on the best seller lists for over 11 months.

Otto isn't wasting any time getting activated now the court has decided in his favor. He has sent the script to Susan Kohner and wants her for the part of Laura. Susan likes it very much so it's only a matter of time before she inks the papers.

Every top actor in town has been rumored for the male lead of the lawyer, including Bill Holden, Gary Cooper and Bob Mitchum — but Preminger says no one is set.

Good for Joseph Schenck! His Schenck Enterprises Company as just sold a TV series to the Alcoa people for $4,000,000. Joe, with attorney Greg Bautzer, formed the Joseph Schenck Enterprises about six months ago and made a pilot film titled "One Step Beyond" which deals with the subject of extrasensory perception.

Joe is very interested in producing this series although I don't believe he watches much TV. His first love is motion pictures and always will be.

Recently when Howard Keel came to see me he said he wanted to continue singing on the screen, which is a switch. Most of the singers want non-warbling roles. Well J. Arthur Rank has offered Howard the screen biography of the great Russian opera star Feodor Chaliapin and Howard is very interested.

It was when he was making "floods of fear" for Rank in London last year that the British producer approached him about the Chaliapin venture. But it wasn't until a few days ago, on the set of "The Big Fisherman" that word was received that the script was almost ready. Rank wanted to know when Keel will be finished in Roland V. Lee's religious spectacle so he can report for Chaliapin, which will certainly give Howard a vocal workout.

Richard Widmark is not at all happy about losing that little home in the West he's been dreaming about for so long. He's going to take his problem to court when he finishes "Warlock" at 20th Century-Fox.

Dick found the ideal place not long ago in Ventura County with a price tag of $96,000 on it, and he paid $28,000 down, in cash, on the property. Now the seller is trying to back out of the deal after Dick has had an architect draw up plans for his dream house. Dick's acted in so many outdoor movies that he has been bitten by the ranching bug, and he planned to make his living raising cattle when he retires from acting, which we hope won't be for a long time.

Once again "True Love" bites the dust in favor of a Hollywood career. Evy Norlund, who won fame as "Miss Denmark" in the Miss Universe contest and along with it a contract at Columbia, is heading home to break the news to her boyfriend that their engagement is over.

The young man, whose name is Klaus Padl, has a job that keeps him in Denmark, and Evy is now convinced that her heart and interests are in Hollywood. She believes that no marriage will stand up under the pressure of long separations, and she's going all the way home to tell Klaus in person.

One of the nicest Christmas gifts of any season was given to Gilbert Roland by Ernest Hemingway. When Gil was in Cuba with "Mr. Pharaoh and the Cleopatra," Hemingway presented him with the film rights to a short story "The Capitol of the World," because said Hemingway, "No one but you should attempt to star in it."

Gilbert plans to set up his own company and make "the capitol of the world" in Spain inasmuch as it involves bull fighting. It's a story about a man who accidentally kills a friend during a mock bull fight, and it has all the color and adventure of the usual Hemingway tales.

Department store sales in December are normally twice as high as the monthly average for the rest of the year in the United States.

Community Tree Lighting Ceremony Is Due Sunday

The community's Christmas tree will be lighted at ceremonies Sunday at 9:15 p. m. on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long, chairman of arrangements and master of ceremonies.

The program will open with a selection by the Municipal Concert Band, under direction of Dr. Ward Cole. Invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, after which the concert band will play 'It Came Upon A Midnight Clear.'

Mayor J. Edwin Keech will throw the switch to light the community tree and the Youth Choir of First Presbyterian Church will sing 'The First Noel,' 'O Little Town of Bethlehem' and 'Joy To The World.' The choir will be directed by Herman Smith, who will also lead community singing of 'O Come All Ye Faithful' and 'Hark, the Herald Angels Sing.'

The program will close with 'Silent Night' by the concert band and benediction by Rev. Robert L. Leather, assistant rector of Emmanuel Church.

There will be no official program for the lighting of the community tree in South Cumberland.

Witness Kept In Jail 148 Days Released

EASTON, Md. (AP)—A 43-year-old woman, kept in jail because she could not meet bail as a state's witness in a murder case, was released Thursday after 148 days of confinement.

Mrs. Julia Rayford had been unable to make bail when she was held as a witness in the case of John Spencer, charged with the shotgun slaying July 19 of O'Neal Kellum. All were Negro itinerant workers.

Spencer was convicted of second-degree murder and was sentenced to five years in the Maryland House of Correction for the slaying near Easton.

County Seeks Bigger Share Of Gas Tax

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday instructed Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, to draw up a resolution in which it would support a proposal under which the various counties would receive a greater percentage of the state gasoline taxes.

This action followed a report by Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, on a meeting he attended Wednesday at Towson of the County Engineers Association of Maryland when allocation of the gasoline tax was the main topic. Skelly said the gasoline tax is apportioned with the State Roads Commission getting 50 per cent, Baltimore City, 30 per cent and the counties 20 per cent of the gasoline tax monies.

Skelly explained that it costs the county $762.97 to maintain one mile of roadway while only $800 per mile is received in state gasoline tax money. This leaves a limited amount for new construction.

A committee of the engineers' group headed by John Wolfe, an assistant roads engineer for Baltimore County, will meet December 29 at Frederick. This group is checking information on costs and gasoline tax receipts in the counties. Skelly is a member of the committee.

The county commissioners were informed by Skelly that the engineers' group will ask the support of every county board in the state to obtain legislation under which the counties would receive a higher percentage of the gasoline tax revenue.

County Board Makes Appointments

Two promotional appointments were made yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Bertha May Coleman, of Midlothian, was named assistant cook at the County Infirmary and Delmer Younker, Little Orleans, was named an equipment operator. Both jobs are under Civil Service and the two employes took the promotional examination recently.

The Monarch Printing Company was awarded a contract to supply letterheads for the Assessment Department for $32.50 while the Commercial Press Company will supply personal property schedules of two types at $45.45 for one and $85 for the other. These were the low bids on both printing jobs.

County Board Discusses Various Financial Matters

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday discussed a number of financial matters with Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor.

Mrs. Sills outlined bookkeeping procedures used in handling unappropriated balances.

Commissioner William A. Wilson brought up the matter of $180,000 which is on deposit in several banks in the county and is not on interest-bearing accounts. Mrs. Sills said that some of this money has been on deposit longer than the rest. She said that as far as she knew no funds were withdrawn from these accounts in recent months.

A joint motion by Commissioner Wilson and Commissioner John Tucker Mason was adopted by the board in which Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, is to check into the legality of having these funds placed in interest bearing accounts or invested in U. S. Treasury notes.

During the discussion it was brought out that in years past when the county received state school bonds or loans and the money was not needed immediately the funds were invested in Treasury notes. One example was the $800,000 which was in Treasury notes during World War II when construction of the Mt. Savage School was held up. The county realized a tidy profit by this procedure.

Clark said he had checked into the legal question somewhat but had not as yet found anything in the county code providing for investing funds of the county. Legislation may be required for any action of this nature, he added.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — All the fighting and disputing is over and Otto Preminger comes up the winner in the hassle over which Hollywood producer will bring "anatomy of murder" to the screen. It was a prize worth battling for as Robert Traver's exciting novel has been on the best seller lists for over 11 months.

Otto isn't wasting any time getting activated now the court has decided in his favor. He has sent the script to Susan Kohner and wants her for the part of Laura. Susan likes it very much so it's only a matter of time before she inks the papers.

Every top actor in town has been rumored for the male lead of the lawyer, including Bill Holden, Gary Cooper and Bob Mitchum — but Preminger says no one is set.

Good for Joseph Schenck! His Schenck Enterprises Company as just sold a TV series to the Alcoa people for $4,000,000. Joe, with attorney Greg Bautzer, formed the Joseph Schenck Enterprises about six months ago and made a pilot film titled "One Step Beyond" which deals with the subject of extrasensory perception.

Joe is very interested in producing this series although I don't believe he watches much TV. His first love is motion pictures and always will be.

Recently when Howard Keel came to see me he said he wanted to continue singing on the screen, which is a switch. Most of the singers want non-warbling roles. Well J. Arthur Rank has offered Howard the screen biography of the great Russian opera star Feodor Chaliapin and Howard is very interested.

It was when he was making "floods of fear" for Rank in London last year that the British producer approached him about the Chaliapin venture. But it wasn't until a few days ago, on the set of "The Big Fisherman" that word was received that the script was almost ready. Rank wanted to know when Keel will be finished in Roland V. Lee's religious spectacle so he can report for Chaliapin, which will certainly give Howard a vocal workout.

Richard Widmark is not at all happy about losing that little home in the West he's been dreaming about for so long. He's going to take his problem to court when he finishes "Warlock" at 20th Century-Fox.

Dick found the ideal place not long ago in Ventura County with a price tag of $96,000 on it, and he paid $28,000 down, in cash, on the property. Now the seller is trying to back out of the deal after Dick has had an architect draw up plans for his dream house. Dick's acted in so many outdoor movies that he has been bitten by the ranching bug, and he planned to make his living raising cattle when he retires from acting, which we hope won't be for a long time.

Once again "True Love" bites the dust in favor of a Hollywood career. Evy Norlund, who won fame as "Miss Denmark" in the Miss Universe contest and along with it a contract at Columbia, is heading home to break the news to her boyfriend that their engagement is over.

The young man, whose name is Klaus Padl, has a job that keeps him in Denmark, and Evy is now convinced that her heart and interests are in Hollywood. She believes that no marriage will stand up under the pressure of long separations, and she's going all the way home to tell Klaus in person.

One of the nicest Christmas gifts of any season was given to Gilbert Roland by Ernest Hemingway. When Gil was in Cuba with "Mr. Pharaoh and the Cleopatra," Hemingway presented him with the film rights to a short story "The Capitol of the World," because said Hemingway, "No one but you should attempt to star in it."

Gilbert plans to set up his own company and make "the capitol of the world" in Spain inasmuch as it involves bull fighting. It's a story about a man who accidentally kills a friend during a mock bull fight, and it has all the color and adventure of the usual Hemingway tales.

Department store sales in December are normally twice as high as the monthly average for the rest of the year in the United States.

Community Tree Lighting Ceremony Is Due Sunday

The community's Christmas tree will be lighted at ceremonies Sunday at 9:15 p. m. on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long, chairman of arrangements and master of ceremonies.

The program will open with a selection by the Municipal Concert Band, under direction of Dr. Ward Cole. Invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, after which the concert band will play 'It Came Upon A Midnight Clear.'

Mayor J. Edwin Keech will throw the switch to light the community tree and the Youth Choir of First Presbyterian Church will sing 'The First Noel,' 'O Little Town of Bethlehem' and 'Joy To The World.' The choir will be directed by Herman Smith, who will also lead community singing of 'O Come All Ye Faithful' and 'Hark, the Herald Angels Sing.'

The program will close with 'Silent Night' by the concert band and benediction by Rev. Robert L. Leather, assistant rector of Emmanuel Church.

There will be no official program for the lighting of the community tree in South Cumberland.

Witness Kept In Jail 148 Days Released

EASTON, Md. (AP)—A 43-year-old woman, kept in jail because she could not meet bail as a state's witness in a murder case, was released Thursday after 148 days of confinement.

Mrs. Julia Rayford had been unable to make bail when she was held as a witness in the case of John Spencer, charged with the shotgun slaying July 19 of O'Neal Kellum. All were Negro itinerant workers.

Spencer was convicted of second-degree murder and was sentenced to five years in the Maryland House of Correction for the slaying near Easton.

County Seeks Bigger Share Of Gas Tax

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday instructed Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, to draw up a resolution in which it would support a proposal under which the various counties would receive a greater percentage of the state gasoline taxes.

This action followed a report by Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, on a meeting he attended Wednesday at Towson of the County Engineers Association of Maryland when allocation of the gasoline tax was the main topic. Skelly said the gasoline tax is apportioned with the State Roads Commission getting 50 per cent, Baltimore City, 30 per cent and the counties 20 per cent of the gasoline tax monies.

Skelly explained that it costs the county $762.97 to maintain one mile of roadway while only $800 per mile is received in state gasoline tax money. This leaves a limited amount for new construction.

A committee of the engineers' group headed by John Wolfe, an assistant roads engineer for Baltimore County, will meet December 29 at Frederick. This group is checking information on costs and gasoline tax receipts in the counties. Skelly is a member of the committee.

The county commissioners were informed by Skelly that the engineers' group will ask the support of every county board in the state to obtain legislation under which the counties would receive a higher percentage of the gasoline tax revenue.

County Board Makes Appointments

Two promotional appointments were made yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Bertha May Coleman, of Midlothian, was named assistant cook at the County Infirmary and Delmer Younker, Little Orleans, was named an equipment operator. Both jobs are under Civil Service and the two employes took the promotional examination recently.

The Monarch Printing Company was awarded a contract to supply letterheads for the Assessment Department for $32.50 while the Commercial Press Company will supply personal property schedules of two types at $45.45 for one and $85 for the other. These were the low bids on both printing jobs.

County Board Discusses Various Financial Matters

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday discussed a number of financial matters with Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor.

Mrs. Sills outlined bookkeeping procedures used in handling unappropriated balances.

Commissioner William A. Wilson brought up the matter of $180,000 which is on deposit in several banks in the county and is not on interest-bearing accounts. Mrs. Sills said that some of this money has been on deposit longer than the rest. She said that as far as she knew no funds were withdrawn from these accounts in recent months.

A joint motion by Commissioner Wilson and Commissioner John Tucker Mason was adopted by the board in which Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, is to check into the legality of having these funds placed in interest bearing accounts or invested in U. S. Treasury notes.

During the discussion it was brought out that in years past when the county received state school bonds or loans and the money was not needed immediately the funds were invested in Treasury notes. One example was the $800,000 which was in Treasury notes during World War II when construction of the Mt. Savage School was held up. The county realized a tidy profit by this procedure.

Clark said he had checked into the legal question somewhat but had not as yet found anything in the county code providing for investing funds of the county. Legislation may be required for any action of this nature, he added.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Ralph F. Knippenberg, who passed away Dec. 20, 1957.

The golden sun is shining
Upon our dear husband and father's grave.
One we loved so dearly
And tried so hard to save.
When we lost you, dearest husband and father,
We lost a wonderful pal,
We love you now and ever shall,
More and more and ever shall.
Sadly missed by his wife,
MRS. ANNA KNIPPENBERG and DAUGHTERS.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our neighbors, relatives and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Rachel Marshall. We especially wish to thank Rev. James Eaken and all those who sent cards and floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Ralph F. Knippenberg, who passed away Dec. 20, 1957.

The golden sun is shining
Upon our dear husband and father's grave.
One we loved so dearly
And tried so hard to save.
When we lost you, dearest husband and father,
We lost a wonderful pal,
We love you now and ever shall,
More and more and ever shall.

Sadly missed by his wife,
MRS. ANNA KNIPPENBERG and DAUGHTERS.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our neighbors, relatives and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Rachel Marshall. We especially wish to thank Rev. James Eaken and all those who sent cards and floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars.

THE FAMILY.

Rail Bridge Almost Gone

Most of the temporary railroad bridge across Wills Creek at Baltimore Street was removed this week by the contractor, the George F. Hazelwood Company.

The single-track span structure was built in the summer of 1957 to be used during the demolition of the old Western Maryland Railway bridge and the subsequent construction of the new one.

Two weeks ago the new double-track span was placed in use and workmen then began the job of removing the temporary structure.

A spokesman of the Hazelwood Company said 120 tons of steel were used in its construction. This belongs to the contractor as the cost of erecting the temporary span was included in the bid price.

A crane loaded the large steel beams onto a Western Maryland car Thursday, attracting the usual number of sidewalk superintendents.

The upright beams had to be driven into the bed of Wills Creek. When these are finally removed, and the bed paving work completed, the last creek phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project will have been completed.

James Butler (Wild Bill) Hickok was shot dead from behind in Deadwood, S. D., on Aug. 2, 1876.

Navy "Eye" Could Spot Spy Moons

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (AP)—Navy scientists here have developed what they say is the first camera capable of detecting and tracking unfriendly, spying satellites.

The development was disclosed this week.

Until now American and Russian satellites have been tracked best by antennas picking up their radio signals. Telescope and camera tracking has been difficult—and impossible when the satellite is too high or too small.

But suppose a satellite has been designed to transmit radio signals only over Russia on command from Russians. Free world tracking systems would not be able to pick up these signals.

To close this gap in sky defenses, Navy scientists have been working the past six months to fashion a new kind of eye to scan the sky.

The announcement called it a "synchronized smear camera for satellite surveillance and detection." This means that when it locks on a moving object, the other points of light in the sky show up only as smears. At its present stage of development, the camera can obtain an exposure of as long as 10 minutes.

Leininger said the camera has not photographed any mystery satellites to date, but added that he does not yet have facilities to cover the whole sky at once throughout the night. It would take a bank of nine of these cameras, he said, to scan from horizon to horizon.

Leininger said his camera had taken pictures of America's Explorer IV and Russia's Sputnik III. "We have not yet tried for Explorer I and Vanguard I," he said. These are the only four man-made satellites known to be orbiting around the earth.

Oregon Gets Stamp On Anniversary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 100th anniversary of Oregon statehood will be marked by a special commemorative stamp depicting the "long overland trek of its early settlers," the Post Office announced Friday. The four-cent blue-green stamp will show the rear view of a covered wagon "typical of those used over the Oregon Trail by the early settlers," the Post Office said.

County Orders Account Check

At the suggestion of Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, a check of all overdue accounts for persons in the County Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat will be made early next month.

Clark said that the county could recover amounts due when inmates at both institutions die and leave estates. It is necessary that the executor or administrator of such estates be contacted and the county's claim submitted, he added.

Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor, said she would go over these accounts. Some of the accounts are uncollectable, she added, and should be abated by the county.

Mrs. Sills also told the board the State Mental Hygiene Department is pressing for a list of all uncollectable accounts for persons from this county who are in state mental hospitals. The state is taking over collection of all accounts January 1.

Mrs. Sills said she and her staff have only six more working days to provide this list to the state by the January 1 deadline. Commissioner John J. Rowan, board president, said that the state agency should have given adequate notice of this deadline.

Second National Announces Dividend

The Board of Directors of The Second National Bank announced yesterday it has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $1 a share on capital stock of the bank.

This dividend will be paid January 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business December 31. The distribution, 162nd in the history of the bank, continues the regular annual declaration of $2 a share that has been paid for many years.

Thursday, the bank held its Christmas party at Cumberland Country Club. Directors, officers and employes with their wives and husbands attended.

Feature of the entertainment was a mock directors' meeting which was written, produced, and staged by members of the bank's staff. A musical program was presented by Mrs. Robertine Boyle Murray, Mrs. Marion Hamilton Francis and Billy Boyer with Kenneth Mahaney of the bank acting as master of ceremonies.

Repairs Started On Chandeliers

Workmen were busy yesterday making repairs to the three chandeliers in the main court room at the Court House which were found to be faulty after a fourth chandelier crashed to the floor from the ceiling Thursday.

One of the workmen said the bolts which held the main section of the chandeliers had threads which were stripped. He attributed this to the heat the 1,000 watt bulbs generated.

Rail Bridge Almost Gone

Most of the temporary railroad bridge across Wills Creek at Baltimore Street was removed this week by the contractor, the George F. Hazelwood Company.

The single-track span structure was built in the summer of 1957 to be used during the demolition of the old Western Maryland Railway bridge and the subsequent construction of the new one.

Two weeks ago the new double-track span was placed in use and workmen then began the job of removing the temporary structure.

A spokesman of the Hazelwood Company said 120 tons of steel were used in its construction. This belongs to the contractor as the cost of erecting the temporary span was included in the bid price.

This can be reclaimed as were the large wood beams used in building the temporary auto-pedestrian bridge carrying Baltimore Street across the creek.

A crane loaded the large steel beams onto a Western Maryland car Thursday, attracting the usual number of sidewalk superintendents.

The upright beams had to be driven into the bed of Wills Creek. When these are finally removed, and the bed paving work completed, the last creek phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project will have been completed.

James Butler (Wild Bill) Hickok was shot dead from behind in Deadwood, S. D., on Aug. 2, 1876.

Navy "Eye" Could Spot Spy Moons

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (AP)—Navy scientists here have developed what they say is the first camera capable of detecting and tracking unfriendly, spying satellites.

The development was disclosed this week.

Until now American and Russian satellites have been tracked best by antennas picking up their radio signals. Telescope and camera tracking has been difficult—and impossible when the satellite is too high or too small.

But suppose a satellite has been designed to transmit radio signals only over Russia on command from Russians. Free world tracking systems would not be able to pick up these signals.

To close this gap in sky defenses, Navy scientists have been working the past six months to fashion a new kind of eye to scan the sky.

The announcement called it a "synchronized smear camera for satellite surveillance and detection." This means that when it locks on a moving object, the other points of light in the sky show up only as smears. At its present stage of development, the camera can obtain an exposure of as long as 10 minutes.

Leininger said the camera has not photographed any mystery satellites to date, but added that he does not yet have facilities to cover the whole sky at once throughout the night. It would take a bank of nine of these cameras, he said, to scan from horizon to horizon.

Leininger said his camera had taken pictures of America's Explorer IV and Russia's Sputnik III. "We have not yet tried for Explorer I and Vanguard I," he said. These are the only four man-made satellites known to be orbiting around the earth.

Oregon Gets Stamp On Anniversary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 100th anniversary of Oregon statehood will be marked by a special commemorative stamp depicting the "long overland trek of its early settlers," the Post Office announced Friday. The four-cent blue-green stamp will show the rear view of a covered wagon "typical of those used over the Oregon Trail by the early settlers," the Post Office said.

County Orders Account Check

At the suggestion of Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, a check of all overdue accounts for persons in the County Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat will be made early next month.

Clark said that the county could recover amounts due when inmates at both institutions die and leave estates. It is necessary that the executor or administrator of such estates be contacted and the county's claim submitted, he added.

Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor, said she would go over these accounts. Some of the accounts are uncollectable, she added, and should be abated by the county.

Mrs. Sills also told the board the State Mental Hygiene Department is pressing for a list of all uncollectable accounts for persons from this county who are in state mental hospitals. The state is taking over collection of all accounts January 1.

Mrs. Sills said she and her staff have only six more working days to provide this list to the state by the January 1 deadline. Commissioner John J. Rowan, board president, said that the state agency should have given adequate notice of this deadline.

Second National Announces Dividend

The Board of Directors of The Second National Bank announced yesterday it has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $1 a share on capital stock of the bank.

This dividend will be paid January 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business December 31. The distribution, 162nd in the history of the bank, continues the regular annual declaration of $2 a share that has been paid for many years.

Thursday, the bank held its Christmas party at Cumberland Country Club. Directors, officers and employes with their wives and husbands attended.

Feature of the entertainment was a mock directors' meeting which was written, produced, and staged by members of the bank's staff. A musical program was presented by Mrs. Robertine Boyle Murray, Mrs. Marion Hamilton Francis and Billy Boyer with Kenneth Mahaney of the bank acting as master of ceremonies.

Repairs Started On Chandeliers

Workmen were busy yesterday making repairs to the three chandeliers in the main court room at the Court House which were found to be faulty after a fourth chandelier crashed to the floor from the ceiling Thursday.

One of the workmen said the bolts which held the main section of the chandeliers had threads which were stripped. He attributed this to the heat the 1,000 watt bulbs generated.

Stocks Climb To Record High, Then Give Ground

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks climbed to new record highs Friday then gave ground on profit-taking in recent upside leaders—issues such as American Telephone, Zenith, the drug stocks, electronics, some of the steels and rails.

There were numerous good gains despite the selling. Eastman Kodak, object of considerable stock-[illegible]plit conjecture, held 3 points of an early 7 point gain.

Missile issues, reflecting successful orbiting of an Atlas missile, scored gains ranging past 4 points in Triokol. Goodrich ran up nearly 6 in the times. Westinghouse Air Brake gained over 2. Chrysler met demand when it appeared its strike was settled and it closed with a gain of nearly a point.

Training was at a moderate pace through the session, with turnover totaling 3,540,000 shares against 3,900,000 in each of the two previous sessions.

The late selling was deemed entirely technical in nature, representing evening up before the week end and the holiday shortened week to come.

Zenith, which has soared spectacularly in recent weeks, fell back nearly 11 points. American Telephone lost 2½ points of the rise scored on this week's three-for-one stock split announcement. Polaroid lost nearly 3. Recently favored pharmaceuticals had losses running around 2 points in Warner Lambert, Sterling Drug, Pfizer.

Chance Vought, which this week has lost out heavily on defense contracts, slumped over 3.

Rails were mixed but with a loss of more than 7 points in Texas & Pacific, outside the average group. Atlantic Coastline and Kansas City Southern rose around a point; Louisville & Nashville lost 2.

Utility features were Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line with a gain of 2; Columbia Gas, up ⅞.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains closed mostly steady Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ¼ to off ⅛ cent; corn (old) up ½ to ⅝ cent; (new) up ⅛ to ½ cent; oats off ¼ to up ⅜ cent; rye up ¼ to 1 cent; soybeans up ⅛ to ¾ cent.

The trade was generally in a selling movement throughout the session.

Orders to buy wheat were mostly below previous closing levels. Commission house selling was light and concentrated in the March delivery. Some commercial brokers also sold.

Grains at outside markets were steady to firm. The range:

Stocks Climb To Record High, Then Give Ground

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks climbed to new record highs Friday then gave ground on profit-taking in recent upside leaders —issues such as American Telephone, Zenith, the drug stocks, electronics, some of the steels and rails.

There were numerous good gains despite the selling. Eastman Kodak, object of considerable stock-[illegible]plit conjecture, held 3 points of an early 7 point gain.

Missile issues, reflecting successful orbiting of an Atlas missile, scored gains ranging past 4 points in Triokol. Goodrich ran up nearly 6 in the times. Westinghouse Air Brake gained over 2. Chrysler met demand when it appeared its strike was settled and it closed with a gain of nearly a point.

Training was at a moderate pace through the session, with turnover totaling 3,540,000 shares against 3,900,000 in each of the two previous sessions.

The late selling was deemed entirely technical in nature, representing evening up before the week end and the holiday shortened week to come.

Zenith, which has soared spectacularly in recent weeks, fell back nearly 11 points. American Telephone lost 2½ points of the rise scored on this week's three-for-one stock split announcement. Polaroid lost nearly 3. Recently favored pharmaceuticals had losses running around 2 points in Warner Lambert, Sterling Drug, Pfizer.

Chance Vought, which this week has lost out heavily on defense contracts, slumped over 3.

Rails were mixed but with a loss of more than 7 points in Texas & Pacific, outside the average group. Atlantic Coastline and Kansas City Southern rose around a point; Louisville & Nashville lost 2.

Utility features were Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line with a gain of 2; Columbia Gas, up ⅞.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains closed mostly steady Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ¼ to off ⅛ cent; corn (old) up ½ to ⅝ cent; (new) up ⅛ to ½ cent; oats off ¼ to up ⅜ cent; rye up ¼ to 1 cent; soybeans up ⅛ to ¾ cent.

The trade was generally in a selling movement throughout the session.

Orders to buy wheat were mostly below previous closing levels. Commission house selling was light and concentrated in the March delivery. Some commercial brokers also sold.

A barely steady tone prevailed in corn. July corn was purchased against sales of March at four cents difference. Spot corn was stronger.

Cash houses governed trade in oats, as they bought and sold March.

Soybeans featured a light and general trade. Deferred contracts were easier.

City Asks Tax To Raise Wages Of Workers

Seeks Elimination Of Double Cost

The Mayor and Council last night asked the Allegany County Delegation to back a program for the elimination of overlapping city and county functions and for additional tax sources to raise the pay of city workers.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said the city next year will be faced with a grave issue as it must find a way to get more revenue for city workers, who have had no increase in wages in recent years while the cost of living rose to the skies.

He said the Mayor and Council can't and doesn't want to raise the tax rate and needs urgently some additional sources of revenue.

The authority for the additional sources of revenue would have to come from the Legislature, he said.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll served as chairman at the meeting attended by Senator Charles M. See and the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

The city's program was presented by William R. Carscaden, city attorney.

Highest In State

He pointed out that Cumberland, with the highest tax rate in Maryland, is concerned with the overlapping of city and county functions, and will discuss the issues with the Allegany County Commissioners.

An instance, Mr. Carscaden said, is Memorial Hospital. When the hospital asked for funds, he said, they were provided by matched city and county funds, with the city paying all of its share and helping pay the county's share.

The Health Department, he said, is a county and state function, yet the city provides free quarters on the second and third floors of the Public Safety Building and the basement of City Hall.

Mr. Carscaden said that if health is a city-state function, they should bear the cost.

Requested was relief from a portion of the cost of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Mr. Carscaden said the county contributes to every volunteer fire department in the county but that the city, which pays half the bill, gets nothing.

He said it is only fair that the county make some contribution

Cold Air Mass Expected To Hit Here Today

The mild weather enjoyed here the past several days is due to come to an abrupt end today as the weatherman calls for a low between 15 and 20 degrees this morning.

Cold Arctic air is pushing down from the north and is predicted to reach here early today. Snow flurries also are predicted with the high reading today to be in the 20s.

Yesterday the mercury reached an official high of 57 degrees while the overnight low yesterday was 21 degrees.

Tomorrow is to be continued cold with a chance of snow flurries. The cold wave is expected to break Tuesday or Wednesday with a chance of rain or snow on those two days.

Rish Files Appeal From Zoning Rule

Bluefield Firm Takes Action

The Rish Equipment Company of Bluefield, W. Va., has filed an appeal in Allegany County Circuit Court after an application for use and occupancy in Election District 29 was rejected by the LaVale Zoning Board.

Necessary petition papers were filed yesterday by William H. Geppert and William A. Gunter who are representing Harry L. Lucas and Dorothy E. Lucas, of the equipment firm.

The site being sought by the company is located at 926 National Highway. After the decision was handed down by the Board, the company had 30 days in which to file an appeal.

Last week C. A. Lancaster and Leslie J. Clark, board members, filed an opinion rejecting the company's application for the sale and service of heavy duty construction equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucas are conducting a trucking, automobile sales and repair business at the location. They were issued a non-conforming use by the Board on September 3.

In reaching its decision, the board found that the business proposed by the company is a different type of business than that now being conducted on the premises.

The zoning regulations for LaVale stipulate that no non-conforming building, structure or use may be changed to another non-conforming use.

The firm expected to do an annual business volume of $500,000 to $700,000 at this location mostly in the sale of parts.

Little Progress In PPG Talks Is Reported

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Federal Mediator Hayward Montoney Friday night indicated little progress had been made so far toward a new contract between The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. and the striking United Glass and Ceramics Workers.

Montoney said a great amount of work remained and it appeared the twice-a-day sessions here would continue for some time, in casting doubt on a report that "a break was imminent" in the negotiations.

"There is hope as long as they keep meeting," he said. "It is hard to say just what will be done, but not enough has been accomplished to predict what the outcome might be."

The mediator, by agreement the only spokesman during the current talks, said "it is not possible" that agreement is near, "since so much detail must be taken care of."

Montoney conceded that the negotiations might result in "general, overall agreement with the details to be decided later" but indicated he did not know of any such agreement being near.

He refused to discuss just what progress was made toward ending a two-month walkout which shutdown Pittsburgh plants in six states. He said the only news about the talks to be obtained were joint statements released daily about when sessions were to be held.

Meetings started here Tuesday afternoon and have been held each morning and afternoon since, sometimes jointly and separately, he said.

Mail Slower This Year

On Monday before Christmas a year ago, the local post office cancelled about 54,000 pieces of mail, Thomas F. Conlon, post master said yesterday. But based upon yesterday's stamp sales, cancellations this coming Monday will probably hit a record of 100,000.

There has been some steady increase in the number of pieces of mail handled this year, the postmaster noted, however mailing seems later than usual, placing an extra burden on the already over-worked staff.

For the first time during the holiday season, there was a backlog of incoming mail at the postal center last night. Postal workers believe, that with extra deliveries tomorrow and Sunday, much of this can be cleared out.

Total number of pieces of mail Thursday was 131,000, to bring the 11-day Christmas total to 782,000. The season total through December 18, is 67,700 pieces below last year. However, if the anticipated quantity of mail is deposited over the weekend, last year's grand total will probably be equalled before the Christmas holiday, it was predicted.

Judge Praises Jury Panel At Final Trial

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris had a word of praise for the jury panel which heard a $20,000 damage suit Thursday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The damage suit was the final jury trial on the October term of court and Judge Harris told the jury members, "This is the final case of this term and I want to express the court's gratitude for your service. This, I think, is the most intelligent jury we've ever had in Allegany County. I want to wish you all a Merry Christmas and hope you will be back again."

The trial closed this term of court which has extended 73-days since October 6, one of the longest tenures in the court's annals.

Tips On Christmas Trees Are Given By Fire Chief

Just about everyone is looking around for a well-shaped Christmas tree for the holiday season which is just around the corner.

Gaily-decorated trees in the home are beautiful sights to see but if an unexpected fire catches the tree on fire, a home can be reduced to shambles.

Cumberland Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker is joining Cromwell Zembower, fire prevention chairman of the Allegany-Garrett Counties' Volunteer Firemen's Association in reminding residents of a few safety tips around the holidays.

Choose a small tree instead of a large one, and keep it outdoors until you're ready to install it, the chief said.

Chief Parker urges the use of fireproof decorations of glass or metal, never cotton or paper decorations unless flameproof.

Don't set up electric trains around or near the tree. Use electric lights—never candles. Inspect closely every electric socket and wire to make sure the set is in good condition.

Discard electric lighting sets with frayed wiring. Provide a switch at some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off.

When you leave home, don't leave the lights burning and from time to time inspect the tree to see whether any of the needles near the lights have started to turn brown. If so, change the position of the lights. When the needles start to fall, that is the time to take the tree down and discard it outdoors.

And the chief added, gift wrappings should be discarded promptly and safely after presents are opened.

Vehicle Rams Into Flood Wall Here

A Duquesne, Pa. man has filed a $10,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court as a result of injuries he allegedly sustained in an accident last September when a truck in which he was riding went out of control on Bedford Street and crashed into the flood wall along Wills Creek.

Steve Reagan, 35, through his counsel, Edward J. Ryan and James S. Getty, is suing the Ewart Corporation and Don Ewart of 115 Paca Street.

The plaintiff, who was a passenger in the truck, suffered a concussion of the brain, fractured right leg, a chipped ankle of his left leg, bruises and cuts and was confined to Sacred Heart Hospital.

The truck was operated by Ted Cartmel, 30, of Elizabeth, Pa. The loaded truck was bringing supplies from Pittsburgh, Pa. to Cumberland. It went out of control in the 800 block of Bedford Street about 7 a.m. September 13 and continued at a high rate of speed until it rammed into the flood wall.

The accident was blamed on defective brakes.

The defendants were engaged in repairing houses in Cumberland and vicinity at the time of the accident.

Plumbers Warned To Protect Against Cross Connections

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, is advising all plumbers in this county and plumbers making installations in the county that the state plumbing code requires that water consuming devices have protection to prevent a cross connection to the drinking water supply.

The code, he said, places the responsibility for the installation of the vacuum breaker or air gap upon the plumber making the installation.

He said he was referring to dishwashing machines, potato peelers, air conditioners and similar water consuming devices.

Winter To Begin

The winter season for 1958-59 will begin tomorrow morning at 3:40. If the fall weather of the past couple of weeks is an indication of what to expect this winter, it will certainly get quite cold.

Over 2,500 Items Donated In "Toys For Tots" Drive

The 1958 "Toys for Tots" campaign has ended and the results promise to make many deserving children in the Cumberland area happier at Christmas this year.

Captain Billy C. Menges, commanding officer of the Sixth Infantry Company of the Marine Corps Reserve, said the two-month-long drive conducted by the reservists and other community groups resulted in the collection of over 2,500 toys.

Nearly all of these toys were distributed this week by the Associated Charities with whom the Marine Reserve worked to collect the toys.

This was the fifth year in which an increasing number of less fortunate children in this area received toys through this community drive.

Captain Menges said the toy campaign has again proved that the people of Cumberland will do everything they can to make sure deserving children here have a happier Christmas.

The "Toys for Tots" campaign, Captain Menges noted, is an annual community relations program of the Marine Corps Reserve throughout the country. He said the drive is designed to impress upon each community that members of the Marine Corps Reserve are not only residents of the community but also interested in its welfare.

Conversion Boosts Calls In Frostburg

Since the dial telephone conversion was made in Frostburg on November 30, an increase of over 3,000 calls a day has been noted, according to Robert L. Crabtree, manager of the Frostburg office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Mr. Crabtree said that previous to the changeover, the office handled about 12,500 calls a day manually. Since November 30, however, 15,600 are being handled daily on the new equipment.

On December 2, the highest number of calls, 16,940, was made through the Overbrook exchange. Mr. Crabtree added only minor trouble had been encountered and the equipment was operating very satisfactorily.

The cost of the changeover exceeded $600,000 which included a new building to house all the dial equipment. About 10,000 feet of underground cable, 50,000 feet of aerial cable and 23,000,000 conductor feet of cable went into the Frostburg system.

Residents of the Frostburg area now are able to receive and make direct calls to Cumberland, Lonaconing, Mt. Savage and Wellersburg, Pa.

James W. Oates, 24, of RFD 1, Keyser, yesterday was fined $200 on a motor vehicle violation which arose from a hit and run accident several weeks ago at the intersection of the Wiley Ford and Ridgeley roads.

The fine was assessed by a justice of the peace jury at a hearing conducted in Keyser. Conviction on the motor charges also called for Oates' operator's license to be revoked.

Oates filed an appeal to the Mineral County Circuit Court through his attorneys Vernon E. and H. G. Shores.

He was charged with striking the rear of a car operated by Miss Anna L. Wharton, 106 Laing Avenue. Oates failed to stop and proceeded south on Route 28.

Mrs. Ella M. Martin, 71, of Wiley Ford, a passenger in the Wharton car, sustained a scalp laceration.

Oates was arraigned earlier this month before Justice of the Peace Gay Mellon who continued the trial until yesterday.

PE Will Spend $7 Million In 1959 Program

Plans Are Outlined At Frederick Meet

The Potomac Edison Company and its subsidiary companies have budgeted over $7 million for construction work and other capital expenditures in 1959, according to a report given yesterday in Frederick by President D. E. Stultz to the utility company's board of directors.

One of the major projects in the company's 1959 service improvement program is the construction of a 132,000 volt transmission line from Millville, W. Va. to Frederick. This line will be built at an estimated cost of $960,000, Mr. Stultz said, and will provide this section of Maryland with its third high-voltage transmission source of power. According to President Stultz, the new line will furnish an ample power supply for the rapidly growing Frederick and Montgomery County areas.

Another indication of the utility's plans for the coming years was given in a statement to the board that land near Cumberland and Keyser has been purchased as a "possible location" for a new steam generating station "at some time in the future." The purchase totals some 660 acres along the Potomac River at a site known locally as Black Oak.

Mr. Stultz's quarterly report also stated that there has been a seven per cent increase in revenues from the company's operations in 1958 through the month of November as compared with the same period last year.

Each of the company's various major classification of customers has maintained a "consistently good increase in electric power requirements," Mr. Stultz said. For example, his report showed that kilowatt-hour sales to residential customers were ten per cent greater than last year; commerical customer sales were up seven per cent and industrial power sales were 15 per cent higher than a year ago. On an over-all basis, Mr. Stultz said, the amount of kilowatt-hours supplied to all customers will be 12 per cent more in 1958 than in 1957.

During the first 10 months of this year the report showed approximately $9 million has been expended by the electric utility for construction and property additions. Two of the largest items in this program were the completion of the additional generating unit at the R. Paul Smith Station at Williamsport, and the erection of the new $375,000 customer service center building in Cumberland.

In closing his report to the board, Mr. Stultz expressed his personal optimism about prospects for continued future growth of the area served by the Potomac Edison System, stating that his outlook is generally confirmed by prominent economists and advisory services who are predicting that the current rebound of the nation's economy from the recent recession gives promise of substantially better business in 1959.

Members of the board from Cumberland who attended were Owen E. Hitchins, John J. McMullen and Charles A. Piper. Garland L. Johnston, the company's district manager for this area, also was present.

Appeals Court Reverses Rule In Water Case

Partially Overrules Westernport Action

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals ruled Friday that the State Board of Health may not compel the town of Westernport to furnish water to persons outside city limits.

But if Westernport voluntarily does so, the board may order the town to chlorinate or otherwise purify the water, the ruling said.

The appellate opinion reversed an Allegany County Circuit Court ruling which said the State board could not make Westernport purify its water supply to users outside the town.

The appeals court sent the case back to circuit level for entry of an order consistent with its opinion.

Westernport has for years chlorinated its water at its Savage River source about six miles from town.

The town recently constructed a filtration plant within the city limits, and town officials planned to chlorinate the water there.

State health officials sought an injunction against discontinuance of the dam chlorinator on grounds such action would create a "public health menace" for persons who tap into the transmission pipeline between the river and Westernport.

A total of 19 Garrett County families have purchased treated water from the pipeline for about 20 years. The transmission line also has supplied chlorinated water to the Bloomington Water Co. and the wood yard of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co., which employs about 75.

The state court's opinion apparently gives Westernport officials the choice of halting service to users outside the town or continuing to operate the chlorinator at Savage River dam. This plant has been kept operating pending the result of this appeal.

The appellate judges noted that there are two alternatives apparently open to the users outside Westernport—they may install individual chlorination systems or develop private water systems.

The opinion said it appears that the first of these alternatives is not practical "in that private systems are not dependable" and the second is not feasible for at least one user because of the terrain. But the judges said the possibilities of the second plan have not been exhausted.

Red Chinese Refuse Gifts For Bishop

A development in the arrest of Bishop James Edward Walsh, 67-year-old Cumberland missionary in China was reported yesterday and is regarded as discouraging.

An Associated Press from Hong Kong said Chinese Communist Red Cross officials on the Hong Kong Board refused yesterday to accept a Christmas gift parcel for the Roman Catholic bishop.

Bishop Walsh has been arrested and believed held as a political hostage by the Chinese Communist government.

J. R. Hildebrand, American Red Cross field director at Hong Kong, said he delivered packages for the only other Americans under arrest in China.

When Bishop Walsh was taken into custody in mid-November, he was the first American citizen arrested since 1955.

Until that time, only four Americans were being held by the Chinese. It is for these four persons that the Chinese Red Cross officials accepted Christmas packages.

Hildebrand said he could not get a Chinese Red Cross official to accept the package for Bishop Walsh.

The Chinese man told Hildebrand that the Cumberland man's name was not on his authorized list.

Bishop Walsh stayed in Shanghai after the Communist government took over and until mid-November when he was reported missing was under house arrest at his rectory.

When he was reported missing, relatives had U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall to inquire as to his whereabouts.

On Tuesday, the U. S. Department of State informed Sen. Beall that Bishop Walsh had been arrested and is believed held as a political hostage.

The department said it was taking a serious view of this latest development.

The State Department pointed out that Bishop Walsh was the first American to be arrested since the start of ambassadorial talks in August 1955.

These conferences with the Chinese Reds were instituted for the release of 41 Americans detained by the Communists.

Of the 41, only the four remain besides Bishop Walsh.

The Cumberland man has been a Maryknoll Missioner to China for the past 30 years.

Seeks Elimination Of Double Cost

The Mayor and Council last night asked the Allegany County Delegation to back a program for the elimination of overlapping city and county functions and for additional tax sources to raise the pay of city workers.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said the city next year will be faced with a grave issue as it must find a way to get more revenue for city workers, who have had no increase in wages in recent years while the cost of living rose to the skies.

He said the Mayor and Council can't and doesn't want to raise the tax rate and needs urgently some additional sources of revenue.

The authority for the additional sources of revenue would have to come from the Legislature, he said.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll served as chairman at the meeting attended by Senator Charles M. See and the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

The city's program was presented by William R. Carscaden, city attorney.

Highest In State

He pointed out that Cumberland, with the highest tax rate in Maryland, is concerned with the overlapping of city and county functions, and will discuss the issues with the Allegany County Commissioners.

An instance, Mr. Carscaden said, is Memorial Hospital. When the hospital asked for funds, he said, they were provided by matched city and county funds, with the city paying all of its share and helping pay the county's share.

The Health Department, he said, is a county and state function, yet the city provides free quarters on the second and third floors of the Public Safety Building and the basement of City Hall.

Mr. Carscaden said that if health is a city-state function, they should bear the cost.

Requested was relief from a portion of the cost of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Mr. Carscaden said the county contributes to every volunteer fire department in the county but that the city, which pays half the bill, gets nothing.

He said it is only fair that the county make some contribution

Bluefield Firm Takes Action

The Rish Equipment Company of Bluefield, W. Va., has filed an appeal in Allegany County Circuit Court after an application for use and occupancy in Election District 29 was rejected by the LaVale Zoning Board.

Necessary petition papers were filed yesterday by William H. Geppert and William A. Gunter who are representing Harry L. Lucas and Dorothy E. Lucas, of the equipment firm.

The site being sought by the company is located at 926 National Highway. After the decision was handed down by the Board, the company had 30 days in which to file an appeal.

Last week C. A. Lancaster and Leslie J. Clark, board members, filed an opinion rejecting the company's application for the sale and service of heavy duty construction equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucas are conducting a trucking, automobile sales and repair business at the location. They were issued a non-conforming use by the Board on September 3.

In reaching its decision, the board found that the business proposed by the company is a different type of business than that now being conducted on the premises.

The zoning regulations for LaVale stipulate that no non-conforming building, structure or use may be changed to another non-conforming use.

The firm expected to do an annual business volume of $500,000 to $700,000 at this location mostly in the sale of parts.

Little Progress In PPG Talks Is Reported

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Federal Mediator Hayward Montoney Friday night indicated little progress had been made so far toward a new contract between The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. and the striking United Glass and Ceramics Workers.

Montoney said a great amount of work remained and it appeared the twice-a-day sessions here would continue for some time, in casting doubt on a report that "a break was imminent" in the negotiations.

"There is hope as long as they keep meeting," he said. "It is hard to say just what will be done, but not enough has been accomplished to predict what the outcome might be."

The mediator, by agreement the only spokesman during the current talks, said "it is not possible" that agreement is near, "since so much detail must be taken care of."

Montoney conceded that the negotiations might result in "general, overall agreement with the details to be decided later" but indicated he did not know of any such agreement being near.

He refused to discuss just what progress was made toward ending a two-month walkout which shutdown Pittsburgh plants in six states. He said the only news about the talks to be obtained were joint statements released daily about when sessions were to be held.

Meetings started here Tuesday afternoon and have been held each morning and afternoon since, sometimes jointly and separately, he said.

Mail Slower This Year

On Monday before Christmas a year ago, the local post office cancelled about 54,000 pieces of mail, Thomas F. Conlon, post master said yesterday. But based upon yesterday's stamp sales, cancellations this coming Monday will probably hit a record of 100,000.

There has been some steady increase in the number of pieces of mail handled this year, the postmaster noted, however mailing seems later than usual, placing an extra burden on the already over-worked staff.

For the first time during the holiday season, there was a backlog of incoming mail at the postal center last night. Postal workers believe, that with extra deliveries tomorrow and Sunday, much of this can be cleared out.

Total number of pieces of mail Thursday was 131,000, to bring the 11-day Christmas total to 782,000. The season total through December 18, is 67,700 pieces below last year. However, if the anticipated quantity of mail is deposited over the weekend, last year's grand total will probably be equalled before the Christmas holiday, it was predicted.

The damage suit was the final jury trial on the October term of court and Judge Harris told the jury members, "This is the final case of this term and I want to express the court's gratitude for your service. This, I think, is the most intelligent jury we've ever had in Allegany County. I want to wish you all a Merry Christmas and hope you will be back again."

The trial closed this term of court which has extended 73-days since October 6, one of the longest tenures in the court's annals.

Vehicle Rams Into Flood Wall Here

A Duquesne, Pa. man has filed a $10,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court as a result of injuries he allegedly sustained in an accident last September when a truck in which he was riding went out of control on Bedford Street and crashed into the flood wall along Wills Creek.

Steve Reagan, 35, through his counsel, Edward J. Ryan and James S. Getty, is suing the Ewart Corporation and Don Ewart of 115 Paca Street.

The plaintiff, who was a passenger in the truck, suffered a concussion of the brain, fractured right leg, a chipped ankle of his left leg, bruises and cuts and was confined to Sacred Heart Hospital.

The truck was operated by Ted Cartmel, 30, of Elizabeth, Pa. The loaded truck was bringing supplies from Pittsburgh, Pa. to Cumberland. It went out of control in the 800 block of Bedford Street about 7 a.m. September 13 and continued at a high rate of speed until it rammed into the flood wall.

The accident was blamed on defective brakes.

The defendants were engaged in repairing houses in Cumberland and vicinity at the time of the accident.

Plumbers Warned To Protect Against Cross Connections

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, is advising all plumbers in this county and plumbers making installations in the county that the state plumbing code requires that water consuming devices have protection to prevent a cross connection to the drinking water supply.

The code, he said, places the responsibility for the installation of the vacuum breaker or air gap upon the plumber making the installation.

He said he was referring to dishwashing machines, potato peelers, air conditioners and similar water consuming devices.

Winter To Begin

The winter season for 1958-59 will begin tomorrow morning at 3:40. If the fall weather of the past couple of weeks is an indication of what to expect this winter, it will certainly get quite cold.

Tips On Christmas Trees Are Given By Fire Chief

Just about everyone is looking around for a well-shaped Christmas tree for the holiday season which is just around the corner.

Gaily-decorated trees in the home are beautiful sights to see but if an unexpected fire catches the tree on fire, a home can be reduced to shambles.

Cumberland Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker is joining Cromwell Zembower, fire prevention chairman of the Allegany-Garrett Counties' Volunteer Firemen's Association in reminding residents of a few safety tips around the holidays.

Choose a small tree instead of a large one, and keep it outdoors until you're ready to install it, the chief said.

Also set up the tree in the coolest part of the house away from radiators, heaters, fireplaces, and in order to retard drying stand it in water.

Chief Parker urges the use of fireproof decorations of glass or metal, never cotton or paper decorations unless flameproof.

Don't set up electric trains around or near the tree. Use electric lights—never candles. Inspect closely every electric socket and wire to make sure the set is in good condition.

Discard electric lighting sets with frayed wiring. Provide a switch at some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off.

When you leave home, don't leave the lights burning and from time to time inspect the tree to see whether any of the needles near the lights have started to turn brown. If so, change the position of the lights. When the needles start to fall, that is the time to take the tree down and discard it outdoors.

And the chief added, gift wrappings should be discarded promptly and safely after presents are opened.

Over 2,500 Items Donated In "Toys For Tots" Drive

The 1958 "Toys for Tots" campaign has ended and the results promise to make many deserving children in the Cumberland area happier at Christmas this year.

Captain Billy C. Menges, commanding officer of the Sixth Infantry Company of the Marine Corps Reserve, said the two-month-long drive conducted by the reservists and other community groups resulted in the collection of over 2,500 toys.

Nearly all of these toys were distributed this week by the Associated Charities with whom the Marine Reserve worked to collect the toys.

This was the fifth year in which an increasing number of less fortunate children in this area received toys through this community drive.

Captain Menges said the toy campaign has again proved that the people of Cumberland will do everything they can to make sure deserving children here have a happier Christmas.

The "Toys for Tots" campaign, Captain Menges noted, is an annual community relations program of the Marine Corps Reserve throughout the country. He said the drive is designed to impress upon each community that members of the Marine Corps Reserve are not only residents of the community but also interested in its welfare.

Conversion Boosts Calls In Frostburg

Since the dial telephone conversion was made in Frostburg on November 30, an increase of over 3,000 calls a day has been noted, according to Robert L. Crabtree, manager of the Frostburg office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Mr. Crabtree said that previous to the changeover, the office handled about 12,500 calls a day manually. Since November 30, however, 15,600 are being handled daily on the new equipment.

On December 2, the highest number of calls, 16,940, was made through the Overbrook exchange. Mr. Crabtree added only minor trouble had been encountered and the equipment was operating very satisfactorily.

The cost of the changeover exceeded $600,000 which included a new building to house all the dial equipment. About 10,000 feet of underground cable, 50,000 feet of aerial cable and 23,000,000 conductor feet of cable went into the Frostburg system.

Residents of the Frostburg area now are able to receive and make direct calls to Cumberland, Lonaconing, Mt. Savage and Wellersburg, Pa.

Driver Is Fined $200 In Hit-Run

James W. Oates, 24, of RFD 1, Keyser, yesterday was fined $200 on a motor vehicle violation which arose from a hit and run accident several weeks ago at the intersection of the Wiley Ford and Ridgeley roads.

The fine was assessed by a justice of the peace jury at a hearing conducted in Keyser. Conviction on the motor charges also called for Oates' operator's license to be revoked.

Oates filed an appeal to the Mineral County Circuit Court through his attorneys Vernon E. and H. G. Shores.

He was charged with striking the rear of a car operated by Miss Anna L. Wharton, 106 Laing Avenue. Oates failed to stop and proceeded south on Route 28.

Mrs. Ella M. Martin, 71, of Wiley Ford, a passenger in the Wharton car, sustained a scalp laceration.

Oates was arraigned earlier this month before Justice of the Peace Gay Mellon who continued the trial until yesterday.
